Bandit Suspect Is Killed In Battle With Officers

BALTIMORE, March 4.—(INS)—A bandit suspect was shot and killed today by one of two policemen he kidnaped at gunpoint and forced to drive him through downtown Baltimore in their squad car.

Policeman John Biemiller fired three bullets into the bold kidnaper as he and Officer Joseph Judd struggled with the man in the back seat of the car. The suspect was identified by papers found on his body as Francis Clark, 31.

The officers said they picked up Clark in a tavern while they were investigating an $80 bakery holdup that occurred shortly after midnight.

Clark was put in the squad car after he had been "frisked" in the tavern washroom, but neither officer suspected that he was armed.

Surprises With Gun

The officers said that Clark, who was sitting next to Biemiller, suddenly whipped out a gun and shouted:

"This is it. Drive where I tell you to. Obey all traffic laws and stop at the red lights."

The officers said Clark forced them to drive him to a cemetery in the heart of Baltimore and then ordered them to surrender their service revolvers.

According to the policemen, Judd flung his gun into the back seat but Biemiller pulled his own weapon and began exchanging shots with the kidnaper. Judd leaped onto the back seat, they said, and in the exchange of fists and bullets, Clark suddenly cried:

"You've got me. I give up."

Clark was taken to a hospital but was pronounced dead on arrival. Judd suffered the only wound among the policemen. His thumb was injured when he jammed it into the hammer mechanism of Clark's gun.

'Mercy Killing' Trial Is Nearing Climax In Defense Testimony

By JAMES KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 4.—Spectators at the "mercy killing" trial of Dr. Hermann N. Sander looked today to next week for the big, dramatic moment when the accused physician will appear in his own defense.

That moment will come—perhaps Monday or Tuesday— when defense counsel announces: "Next witness, Dr. Sander!"

The appearance of the dark, intellectual, 41-year old physician on the stand will out-dramatize anything else that has already happened in this melodramatic courtroom drama.

Will Be Electric Moment

It will be the electric moment. The testimony that has gone before will be relegated into the background. This will be "it." Here will be the witness who knows."

There, standing in the witness box, will be the one man who alone can reveal why, on December 4 last, in the Hillsborough County General hospital, he injected "air bubbles" into his cancer doomed patient, 59-year old Mrs. Abbie Borroto.

His counsel earlier informed the all-male jury that Dr. Sander, when he injected the needle, al-

Expect Miners Will Return To Jobs Monday

Emergency Measures Delayed Pending Contract Signing

By PHILIP J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators were ready to sign a strike-ending wage contract today and Congressional leaders abandoned their plan to speed action on mine seizure legislation.

The United Mine Workers president and Northern and Western Coal Operators met for 40 minutes and are expected to sign this afternoon an agreement which would send the 370,000 striking miners back to work Monday.

Suspend Order

Meanwhile, the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended until further notice the latest cuts in coal-burning railroad service which were scheduled to go into effect tomorrow night.

ICC Chairman J. Monroe Johnson said that the additional 15 per cent reduction in passenger and freight service is being suspended, but may be placed into effect if the coal strike is not ended.

In Congress, Senate Democratic Leader Lucas announced that the Senate will not take up the seizure bill today because of the developments in the contract negotiations.

Both the Senate and House Labor Committees met to consider the seizure bill requested by President Truman. The House group adjourned without taking any action, but the Senate committee reportedly went ahead with consideration of the measure in a closed meeting.

The coal fact-finding board and Federal Mediator Ching reported to President Truman on the settlement developments.

Board Chairman David L. Cole said that the fact-finders are preparing to leave Washington today, and will make the final written report to the President sometime later.

Ching said that Mr. Truman was "highly pleased" with their report.

U.S. Forcefully Rejects Hungarian 'Suggestion'

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS)—The United States forcefully rejected today the "suggestion" of the Hungarian Communist government that it reduce the size of its legation in Budapest.

The suggestion was made on Feb. 23 after the conviction of Robert A. Vogeler, official of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, who was sentenced to 15 years in jail on spying charges.

The Hungarian government said that matters brought out at the trial establish that most of the personnel of the American legation in Budapest were engaged in spying. It noted that there were 22 officials including seven military, in office plus 48 American employes and 103 Hungarians.

The Hungarian foreign office claims that these mostly came from the old "Fascist" classes or were partisans of the old ruling classes "who hate the workers' regime."

Protect U. S. Ruling

In the same note the Hungarians protested the U. S. ruling forbidding Americans to travel in Hungary and the closing of their consulates in New York and Cleveland.

In today's sharp reply, the State department said that it does not recognize the proceedings against Vogeler which were "characterized throughout by demonstratively preposterous falsehoods."

It declared that the Hungarian government, if it wishes to do so, can demand the recall of specific officials as persona non grata, but it added that the allegations about the Vogeler trial were not a proper basis for such a demand. The note said:

U. S. Presents Stand

"The United States government has no intention, in the existing circumstances, of altering its decisions prohibiting the travel of U. S. citizens in Hungary and clos-

Johnson Says U.S. Must Stockpile Atomic Weapons

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS)—Defense Secretary Louis Johnson left a warning with the nation today that America must accept the "risk of living in the middle of the 20th century" and has no alternative but to build hydrogen bombs and stockpile its atomic weapons.

Johnson, in an important policy speech before the overseas Press Club in New York last night, declared that while full immunity against atomic attack can never be achieved, "we can make retribution so deadly that (the enemy) will wish he had never started."

The secretary said that the situation in Europe is improving and that conditions in Asia will "bear watching." He added:

"We are trying to maintain a quarantine of Soviet communism wherever we feel that our efforts have a reasonable chance of success. Our specific actions will depend on time and circumstances."

What Can Be Done

Johnson said that not even "fifty billion dollars a year" will guarantee a perfect defense against atomic attacks but he added:

"This is what we can do and will do. We can build a strong air defense. We can make enemy raids costly—so costly that the attrition rate will destroy so many of his bombers that he will find himself unable to continue his attack."

He accused the Russians of "Hindering wherever we try to help" but added that "while Russia has been making satellites, we have been adding partners."

The defense chief repeated previous statements that the combat strength of the armed forces is increasing despite overall reduction in economies. He said the air force is in the best state of combat readiness since the war.

Schweinsberg To Name Street Commissioner

When Council convenes formally Monday in City Hall, E. Gene Schweinsberg, director of streets and sewers, will submit the name of Joseph O'Leary, an ex-serviceman, of 114 South Scott street, as commissioner of streets.

According to indications, Mr. O'Leary's appointment will be unanimous.

This morning Council convened formally and during the conference Mr. Schweinsberg proposed O'Leary as commissioner.

Suspect Soviet Still Receiving Atomic Secrets

LONDON, March 4.—(INS)—British and American Intelligence officers were reported today on the trail of an atomic scientist suppected of supplying Russia with A-bomb secrets after Dr. Klaus Fuchs developed qualms about aiding the Soviets.

The report was circulated by the London Daily Mail which said the unidentified suspect came to Britain on "official business" and is known to be "anti-British."

It is said that "this man" stepped into the shoes of Dr. Fuchs, the self-confessed espionage agent sentenced to 14 years in prison, and delivered information in "another sphere of research."

The London newspaper said that Russia's speedy development of the atomic bomb gave credence to Antlo-American belief there was a series of leaks in western atomic security.

The London Daily Herald echoed the Daily Mail report. Stanley Bishop, the newspaper's veteran crime reporter, claimed the atom leak has not yet been plugged and added:

"British counter-espionage has confirmed that research information has been passed on to a foreign power since Fuchs ceased operations two years ago."

Naval Aid To Atlantic Nations Being Started

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Defense officials announced today that the first U. S. aid to bolster the naval arm of western Europe's bulwark against communism will be "the equivalent" of ten well-equipped destroyers .

The $113 million consignment fulfills the first year's supply of naval weapons required under the military assistance program. The transfer will include destroyer escorts, submarines, naval planes, mine sweepers, torpedo boats and ammunition.

The program gets under way Monday with the arrival in Norfolk, Va., of the French aircraft carrier Dismude to load up with radar-equipped, propellor-driven U. S. naval planes.

The mother, Mrs. Lucille Gayton, 32, was reported in critical condition at Mercy hospital in Monroe.

Drive To Extend Rent Controls Under Way

WASHINGTON, March 4—(INS)—The administration began an admittedly tough drive today to extend federal rent controls until June 30, 1951.

Legislation to continue restrictions for another year was offered in the Senate Friday by Majority Leader Lucas (R) Ill., and Sen. Myers (D) Pa., in accordance with President Truman's wishes.

The bill faces rough going however, in view of the action taken by the Senate Appropriations committee and the lukewarm position held by Chairman Maybank (D) S. C., of the banking committee.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 4.—(INS)—The town of Colden, N. Y., lived up to its name today—it was 19 degrees below zero.

All of Erie County felt the frigid weather, with Buffalo's temperature dropping to zero. A high of 25 above is expected today.

Three Are Dead In Home Fire

MONROE, Mich., March 4.—(INS)—Eight-year-old Maria Gayton died in a Monroe, Mich., hospital today of third degree burns received in a fire that took the lives of her two younger sisters, Rosie, 3, and Victoria, 1, and critically burned their mother.

The fire started late yesterday when sparks from a coal stove ignited a can of kerosene at their home near Monroe.

The mother, Mrs. Lucille Gayton, 32, was reported in critical condition at Mercy hospital in Monroe.

Michigan state police reported that Mrs. Gayton threw some corn cobs in the stove and set a five-gallon can of kerosene on the floor when sparks shot out from an opening in the stove door, causing the can to explode.

Drive To Extend Rent Controls Under Way

WASHINGTON, March 4—(INS)—The administration began an admittedly tough drive today to extend federal rent controls until June 30, 1951.

Legislation to continue restrictions for another year was offered in the Senate Friday by Majority Leader Lucas (R) Ill., and Sen. Myers (D) Pa., in accordance with President Truman's wishes.

The bill faces rough going however, in view of the action taken by the Senate Appropriations committee and the lukewarm position held by Chairman Maybank (D) S. C., of the banking committee.

Window-Washer Has Narrow Escape

CHICAGO, March 4.—(INS)—A 22-year-old Chicago man held onto his job for dear life until a passerby decided it was time he quit work for the day.

Cyril Nowakowski, a window-washer, was cleaning a pane on the sixth floor of a southside apartment building yesterday when one of his safety straps snapped.

He managed to grab the window ledge—and dangled for five minntes until someone noticed his plight and called the building superintendent who pulled him in.

U.S. Forcefully Rejects Hungarian 'Suggestion'

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS)—The United States forcefully rejected today the "suggestion" of the Hungarian Communist government that it reduce the size of its legation in Budapest.

The suggestion was made on Feb. 23 after the conviction of Robert A. Vogeler, official of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, who was sentenced to 15 years in jail on spying charges.

The Hungarian government said that matters brought out at the trial establish that most of the personnel of the American legation in Budapest were engaged in spying. It noted that there were 22 officials including seven military, in office plus 48 American employes and 103 Hungarians.

The Hungarian foreign office claims that these mostly came from the old "Fascist" classes or were partisans of the old ruling classes "who hate the workers' regime."

Protect U. S. Ruling

In the same note the Hungarians protested the U. S. ruling forbidding Americans to travel in Hungary and the closing of their consulates in New York and Cleveland.

In today's sharp reply, the State department said that it does not recognize the proceedings against Vogeler which were "characterized throughout by demonstratively preposterous falsehoods."

It declared that the Hungarian government, if it wishes to do so, can demand the recall of specific officials as persona non grata, but it added that the allegations about the Vogeler trial were not a proper basis for such a demand. The note said:

U. S. Presents Stand

"The United States government has no intention, in the existing circumstances, of altering its decisions prohibiting the travel of U. S. citizens in Hungary and clos-

Statehood For Alaska Given House Approval

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The bill to make Alaska the 49th state emerged from a close scrape with oblivion in the house today to face an even tougher fight for survival in the senate.

Alaskan Delegate E. L. Bartlett, jubilant over the 186 to 146 vote of approval in the house late yesterday, said he would ask the senate interior and insular affairs committee to grant the bill a hearing as soon as possible.

Hawaii Next

The house action apparently clears the way for action on Hawaiian statehood next week. The measure was debated briefly prior to the Alaska vote and Delegate J. R. Farrington said preparatory discussions have been so thorough

Weary French Assembly Is Torn By Strife

Brawling Develops As Communists Seek To Kill New Measure

By JOHN E. LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, March 4.—A weary and battered French National Assembly grappled anew today with a government-sponsored anti-sabotage bill, with Communists apparently ready to come to blows again in opposing it.

The assembly took a brief recess after a session of more than 23 hours which was disrupted twice by brawling Communist men and women deputies who inflicted injuries on 10 persons, including at least four popular Republican deputies.

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—(INS)—U. S. Steel corporation announced today it awaited only definite word from Washington to begin calling its employes back to work at the nearby Clairton coke works.

Full production, a corporation spokesman said, will follow in a week.

In other Pittsburgh district plants, where U. S. Steel subsidiaries instituted cutbacks due to the coal crisis, the pick up will be gradual, depending upon how rapidly coke production can be resumed.

Heavy Air Raid Made On Canton

HONG KONG, March 4—(INS)—Chinese Nationalist planes were reported today to have killed or injured 700 persons in a five hour raid on Canton Friday.

Reports reaching Hong Kong said that the raids—the worst in the city's history—destroyed at least 2,100 buildings and severely damaged the power station in Canton's most congested area.

Some bombs also were said to have been dropped on Shameen, the former British concession, but it was not learned whether there were any casualties in the foreign community.

Bride Signs Agreement Hubby Can Go Fishing

CHICAGO, March 4.—(INS)—A real-life Chicago wedding included a bride's signed and sealed promise to let the groom go fishing whenever he wants—but as far as she's concerned, the big one didn't get away.

Detective Joe Gordon, 45, was married in municipal court yesterday to Vera Ross, 36.

But before the ceremony, Miss Ross had to sign a notorized affidavit that read:

"I do hereby agree and promise that Joseph Gordon will continue his fishing activities at any and all times he shall desire without interference from me.

"Be it further resolved, this agreement and promise shall be in effect from the date of our marriage until death do us part."

The couple will honeymoon in Miami, where the fishing is fine.

Completes 45 Years Service

Clarence J. Emminger, center, of Sampson street, is congratulated by Marion Streett, assistant superintendent of the Lake division of the Pennsylvania railroad, left, and W. H. Outcalt, assistant road foreman of engines, upon his retirement as Pennsylvania railroad engineman, effective March 1.

Clarence J. Emminger, 610 Sampson street, retired from the Pennsylvania railroad March 1, after more than 45 years service with the company as a fireman and an engineman.

Mr. Emminger entered service with the railroad as a fireman on February 23, 1905. On July 5, 1907 he was promoted to engineman, a position that he has held until his retirement.

He was born in Butler county and has spent most of his service with the railroad in New Castle.

He was never in any serious accident during his entire railroad career and was described as a good loyal employe—tops as an engineman and as an individual—by his bosses and fellow employes.

Mr. Emminger received the congratulations of Marion Streett, assistant superintendent of the Lake division, and W. H. Outcalt, assistant road foreman of engines, on his fine record over the past 45 years, at ceremonies held at the West Washington street office this week.

He intends to remain in New Castle.

Indicate Large Crowd To Attend Rockwell Dinner

It begins to appear that the testimonial dinner for Col. Willard F. Rockwell in the Cathedral March 9 will be a cross section of New Castle.

Interest in the dinner is rising and apparently every line of endeavor will be represented. Industry will be represented by both managment and men, business houses by owners and employes, professional men and women, transportation, all of them will be in the crowd and it is hoped the dinners will total 1,000.

Luncheon at Noon

If Col. Rockwell, noted industrialist of Pittsburgh gets to New Castle by noon, the directors of the Greater New Castle association will entertain him at luncheon in The Castleton hotel.

Standard Steel Spring company, of which industry he is the chairman of the board, will entertain him in the afternoon, and the dinner, which is open to the general public, will start at 6:30 in the Cathedral dining room.

The dinner is sponsored jointly by the Greater New Castle association and the Economic and Business foundation, with the service clubs of the city co-operating.

A reception committee is being appointed, headed by Roger W. Rowland, president of the New Castle Refractories company, and this committee will welcome the dinner guests.

The idea of the dinner is to "roll

Auto Workers Seek To Boost Pension Plan

DETROIT, March 4.—(INS)—The CIO-United Auto Workers launched a campaign to boost the pension "pattern" to $125 a month today with formal announcement of its 1950 demands on General Motors Corp.

The union said it would seek a 31-cent-an-hour package including pensions, a nine-cent wage increase and improved health benefits when it goes into contract negotiations with General Motors early next month.

The pension proposal called for maximum benefits of $125 a month to workers retiring at the age of 65 with 25 years service with the company.

The UAW settled with the Ford Motor Co. last fall on a pension program which pays $100 a month in combined company-financed benefits and social security payments.

A similar offer by the Chrysler Corp. was rejected because the union claimed it would cost the company less than three cents an hour because of the relatively low age of the firm's employes. A strike of 89,000 Chrysler employes is in its 38th day.

the greater achievements of the Christian religion depend upon the layman's point of view, on the faith and faithfulness of the individual Christian.

We casually emphasize the fact that man needs God, as he most certainly does. We may well add to this the thought that God needs man. His vast enterprise has not been committeed to angels, but to men. Man's faithfulness or his lack of it may either hasten or delay the eternal purposes of God.

Conference Report

Robert White II reported on his recent visit to the Conference of Christian Laymen in Chicago. There were 2,000 men in attendance. The sense of responsibility for the program of the church was impressive. Two special points were made. There is a need for a greater effort on the part of laymen in the evangelistic work of the church. There is a possibility of great achievement by the 800,000 men of the Presbyterian church when once they catch the full vision of the great plan of God and the world's great need.

After the meeting, Dr. Barbour left for Pittsburgh, where he was born and reared. He is now pastor of First Presbyterian church, Knoxville, Tenn.

WEARY FRENCH ASSEMBLY IS TORN BY STRIFE

sure. They also were defeated 302 to 278 on a proposal to adjourn until next Tuesday.

Instead, the assembly decided to go ahead with consideration of the measure paragraphed by paragraph.

Backed by the cabinet of Premier Georges Bidault, the measure would abolish the death penalty for sabotage. This would give the government a far wider scope in dealing with offenders and aid in halting a Communist drive to prevent unloading of Marshal aid military supplies for France.

Brawling Develops

Brawling set off by Communist deputies to kill the bill which would safeguard American arms shipments to France prompted veteran Assembly President Eduard Herriot to say:

"I don't know whether this isn't the end of Parliament in France."

The assembly, which has been almost in continuous session around the clock in its bid to enact legislation to balk political strikes, beat down two Communist motions to delay a final vote.

The Communists, who sparked the free-for-all, were making a last-ditch stand to avoid a final vote. By 8:10 a. m. (3:10 p. m. EST), they had proposed 60 amendments to the anti-sabotage bill, each requiring individual debate.

that he is ready for a vote without further delay.

Senate Interior Committee Chairman O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., is absent in his native state and not available for comment on the prospects of the Alaska proposal. But associates said the senator has never committed himself one way or the other on statehood for the huge territory.

Despite signs of formidable odds in the senate, Bartleet sounded a note of confidence regarding the impending battle. He declared:

"We have a lot of hard work to do over there. We face a terrific fight before we can get senate approval, but I do not regard it as hopeless".

An almost identical Hawaiian statehood bill passed the house June 30, 1947 by 196 to 133, but it died in the senate.

The Hawaiian bill also faces an uphill fight for senate approval, but Farrington felt there was a good chance that enactment could be obtained before adjournment.

Both statehood bills meet with President Truman's approval and he has on numerous occasions asked congress to act favorably.

Auto Workers Seek To Boost Pension Plan

DETROIT, March 4.—(INS)—The CIO-United Auto Workers launched a campaign to boost the pension "pattern" to $125 a month today with formal announcement of its 1950 demands on General Motors Corp.

The union said it would seek a 31-cent-an-hour package including pensions, a nine-cent wage increase and improved health benefits when it goes into contract negotiations with General Motors early next month.

The pension proposal called for maximum benefits of $125 a month to workers retiring at the age of 65 with 25 years service with the company.

The UAW settled with the Ford Motor Co. last fall on a pension program which pays $100 a month in combined company-financed benefits and social security payments.

A similar offer by the Chrysler Corp. was rejected because the union claimed it would cost the company less than three cents an hour because of the relatively low age of the firm's employes. A strike of 89,000 Chrysler employes is in its 38th day.

the greater achievements of the Christian religion depend upon the layman's point of view, on the faith and faithfulness of the individual Christian.

We casually emphasize the fact that man needs God, as he most certainly does. We may well add to this the thought that God needs man. His vast enterprise has not been committeed to angels, but to men. Man's faithfulness or his lack of it may either hasten or delay the eternal purposes of God.

Conference Report

Robert White II reported on his recent visit to the Conference of Christian Laymen in Chicago. There were 2,000 men in attendance. The sense of responsibility for the program of the church was impressive. Two special points were made. There is a need for a greater effort on the part of laymen in the evangelistic work of the church. There is a possibility of great achievement by the 800,000 men of the Presbyterian church when once they catch the full vision of the great plan of God and the world's great need.

After the meeting, Dr. Barbour left for Pittsburgh, where he was born and reared. He is now pastor of First Presbyterian church, Knoxville, Tenn.

sure. They also were defeated 302 to 278 on a proposal to adjourn until next Tuesday.

Instead, the assembly decided to go ahead with consideration of the measure paragraphed by paragraph.

Backed by the cabinet of Premier Georges Bidault, the measure would abolish the death penalty for sabotage. This would give the government a far wider scope in dealing with offenders and aid in halting a Communist drive to prevent unloading of Marshal aid military supplies for France.

Brawling Develops

Brawling set off by Communist deputies to kill the bill which would safeguard American arms shipments to France prompted veteran Assembly President Eduard Herriot to say:

"I don't know whether this isn't the end of Parliament in France."

The assembly, which has been almost in continuous session around the clock in its bid to enact legislation to balk political strikes, beat down two Communist motions to delay a final vote.

The Communists, who sparked the free-for-all, were making a last-ditch stand to avoid a final vote. By 8:10 a. m. (3:10 p. m. EST), they had proposed 60 amendments to the anti-sabotage bill, each requiring individual debate.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all who extended their sympathy during the recent illness and death of our Mother, Mrs. Agnes Must. We especially wish to thank the Pastor and the Assistant of St. Mary's Church and Mr. and Mrs. Bradley McGonigle. We deeply appreciate the service of the pallbearers and the donation of cars and floral tributes. May she rest in peace.

STATEHOOD FOR ALASKA GIVEN HOUSE APPROVAL

that he is ready for a vote without further delay.

Senate Interior Committee Chairman O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., is absent in his native state and not available for comment on the prospects of the Alaska proposal. But associates said the senator has never committed himself one way or the other on statehood for the huge territory.

Despite signs of formidable odds in the senate, Bartleet sounded a note of confidence regarding the impending battle. He declared:

"We have a lot of hard work to do over there. We face a terrific fight before we can get senate approval, but I do not regard it as hopeless".

An almost identical Hawaiian statehood bill passed the house June 30, 1947 by 196 to 133, but it died in the senate.

The Hawaiian bill also faces an uphill fight for senate approval, but Farrington felt there was a good chance that enactment could be obtained before adjournment.

Both statehood bills meet with President Truman's approval and he has on numerous occasions asked congress to act favorably.

FUTURE OF THE FALLS

A new Canadian-U. S. treaty to regulate "the uses of the water of the Niagara River" has two main purposes, according to the official announcement released with the signing of the draft by Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong and Secretary of State Dean Acheson. It aims to safeguard the "scenic grandeur" of the Falls. And it would "place the diversions of water from the Niagara River for power purposes on a permanent legal foundation."

Niagara Falls should be handed to posterity in its majesty and it is good that Canada and the United States, sharing the responsibility for protecting their joint heritage, should cooperate in this task. It seems logical, too, that the legal basis for diverting water to create power should be definitely established so that this natural resource can be utilized as fully as possible—under private enterprise—without destroying the beauty of the Falls.

Whether the treaty would achieve these ends, if ratified by the Senate, is another matter. One account reports that it would result in "a vast increase in the power output" of the river. There is no question about that, apparently, as the water subject to diversion would rise from 36,000 to 100,000 cubic feet a sceond. What is less clear is whether there would be enough left to preserve the spectacle millions now go to see each year.

Certainly it is good that certain "remedial works" to maintain the flow over the Falls and preserve an unbroken crestline are contemplated by the treaty. Nevertheless, the Senate should make sure that the treaty, if ratified, will do what it purports to do. This generation has enough to answer for without making mistakes that would deprive posterity of Niagara Falls in its full glory.

PROPAGANDA AND THE RUBLE

The chief sufferers from the action of the Kremlin in revaluing the ruble will be the people of the satellite countries, and those foolish enough to regard this move as evidence thata the Soviet economy is strong in comparison with the economies of non-totalitarian countries.

While the Russian people may gain briefly from this upward pricing of the ruble, because it means lower prices for the things they buy, the fact remains that all prices in Russia are controlled by the Kremlin, and juggling them doesn't raise the amount of goods available. That, according to all evidence, is far below the needs of the millions of Russians.

Satellite countries, however, will lose on the deal. Increasing the ruble's value means that Poland, Czechoslovakia and other Red-dominated states will pay more for the thin trickle of goods they receive from Russia, and will be paid less for the large amounts of their own products they are forced to send to the Soviet Union.

But the Russians obviously don't believe their own propaganda that the ruble can stand up against the dollar and other currencies. The Russian currency still is not circulated in foreign trade.

If the Kremlin wants to make good this boast, it will have to do more than tinker with the ruble. It will have to open Russia and the Kremlin satellites to world trade, and prove that the Soviet economy can exist in competition with the free world.

RIGHT DRESS!

It was as inevitable as reveille—the Army has announced restyled uniforms for its feminine warriors, designed to make them personalized bombshells. The glamorized wardrobe reflects the fine Parisian hand of Hattie Carnegie, fresh from creating the wedding suits of Mrs. Alben Barkley and Mrs. William O'Dwyer.

Hattie has taken out a little here and put in a little there, banned the neckties and put a saucy tilt to the visored hats. The results were modeled at an Army fashion show and it's said several generals, about to be mustered out for age, have asked for extensions of active duty.

Emphasis of the new siren suits is on individuality. Starting January, 1951, there will be distinctive decors for Wacs, Army nurses and the women's medical specialist corps. And each group will have separate ensembles for winter and summer wear, not to mention smartly tailored slacks for casual around-the-barracks use. Germans Plan 'Defense Army'

Full details of a German plan to establish a "defense army" of between 450 thousand and 750 thousand men have fallen today into the hands of western allied information officers—as they were no doubt supposed to.

And while the United States, Great Britain and France must automatically reject endorsement of any such ambitious plan, its mere formultaion is a signpost clearly showing how far Germany has come from the mental and physical miasma of utter defeat.

The project quite apparently is an old-line German general staff tactical concept.

Backed By Military Group

It is backed by a miltiary group known as "the German brotherhood" and one of the leading figures is Gen. Kurt Hasso Von Manteuffel, a former Prussian general staff occier who has been cleared of Nazism and quite obviously is active on the political front in the capital city and at Frankfurt.

Manteuffel is believer to have had several conferences with Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer. He also probably was one of the men questioned when allied authorities carried out a survey to determine the attitude of former German officers and war veterans in the event of an actual armed clash between East and West.

The "brotherhood" plan is interesting and perhaps important on two counts.

First, it pictures Germany as the natural buffer between East and West which must be strengthened as part of any over-all strategy looking toward the possibility of Soviet aggression in Europe.

Second, it rejects the idea of any "token" German armed force such as one ranging from three to five divisions. In recent unofficial discussions regarding Germany's position in event of conflict, France, always fearful of a German miliatry resurgence, was said to be willing to agree to some such small military establishment.

No Re-Armament

Secretary of State Acheson and U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy have said repeatedly that there is to be no German re-armament and no German air force, and that all possibilities along this line are excluded from the outset.

There presumably is nothing, however, to prevent old-time German officers from day-dreaming and reading up on Von Clausewitz.

They have, in any case, come up with this manifesto asserting that a "token" force would be nothing but cannon fodder, due for annihilation and that the most service it possibly could perform would be to permit western Germany's neighbors to "sleep a few nights longer."

On the other hand, the German generals maintain that a real army of from 30 to 50 crack motorized divisions could be a real force for peace and might hold any crisis in balance until American resources could be brought to bear.

Dangerous Thinking

This type of German thinking is held in many quarters to be dangerous in the extreme.

It is described as the very essence of Nationalism, and it is taken for granted that in any kind of German system, Nationalism means militarism, and militarism means eventual aggression.

In addition, the generals' plan might have some distinct and perilous popular appeal, as it speaks of the inherent "right" of any peoples to own the wherewithal for defense against aggression.

It is an unanswered question, as a matter of fact, to what extent the Germans—civilians and ex-soldiers like—might enter into the spirit of any new war.

They had two crippling experiences within a generation.

It is very likely that in event of a real new crisis they might look for personal salvation rather than military glory. They certainly know they would be in the dead center of a clash between East and West with no hope of anything except complete destruction as their share of the proceedings.

Manteuffel's impressive plan—bristling with numbers and potential military might—may well be a thing of far more shadow than of substance.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TELLING ADOPTED CHILD BEST PLAN

I alway admire the couple who adopt a child and learn to love him as if he were of their own flesh and blood. But it does worry me to learn of many adoptive parents who don't tell their child he was adopted.

The facts are almost certain to come out by and by and when they do, the harm to the inner feelings of the adopted child and to his relationships with his adoptive parents can be tragic. Some thing more happens in the meanwhile to the adoptive parents inside. Constantly aware that the child does not know the fact and ever on guard lest they might themselves let the fact slip out, the adoptive parents experience all sorts of emotional conflicts. And the child senses these conflicts without knowing anything about the causes and, therefore, feels more or less insecure. Such emotions just can't be hidden.

Friendly Letters

But first, I want to tell you of many trustful, friendly letters I receive, whether from remotest places in our own nation or in Canada. When, for instance, a mother writes me from British Columbia that she often wished she could have a heart to heart talk with me and ask me many questions and tell me of her family and her worry over not having told her adopted son, twelve he was adopted, and finally closes with "May God bless you in your wonderful work every day and bring you lots of health and happiness," I just feel I must try my best to approach, at least, her expectations. Yet she and I are total strangers and citizens of different nations. Such trustful friendship between lots of individuals in different nations ought to make these nations feel themselves parts of one happy family. Now to quote:

"I have a little boy whom I adopted when he was four months old. He is now past twelve years of age.

"When he was almost three my husband died. I had to go out to work to keep us. My mother kept the baby for me while I worked. After almost six years I married again so that I could have a home for my little boy. I have a very fine husband who is kind and good. He sets a good example and helps our boy with his school lessons and tries to be a real dad to him. He is anxious for him to do well and have every chance that we can give him. Of course, we are just ordinary working people, but our home life is what a boy needs. We all enjoy good books and music and lots of clean fun.

"Here is something that worries me continually, and I would like you to advise me. When we took this child we knew very little about him. Except like so many others, his little mother was unmarried, and had to let him out for adoption. He doesn't know that I am not his own mother, and I often wonder if he should be told. I couldn't hurt him in any way and want him to be happy always. He has a very sensitive nature, loving and kind and generous. I couldn't possibly love him more than I do. I'm sure you can understand how I feel. The pont is I don't want someone else to tell him the truth some day and hurt him badly. Would you write me and tell me just what would be best to do.

I answered this mother and quoted the last sentence of her letter as my wishes to her. Yes, I know how you feel. I wish I could sit down and talk with you. I'm sure I culd prevail on you to tell that boy at once. Choose a time when you, your husband and the boy are lolling comfortably together. Say to the lad something like this: "You know that a baby grows on its mother's body. You did not grow in my body. Your real mother wasn't able to keep you and care for you but I chose you as my child when you were a tiny baby and I have always loved you and I always will."

But ask one, and then it's a debt
that you owe.

The favor you grant you should

But the favor you ask you may

If you seek admitance to ball

Step up to the window and pay

Beware of fine gifts. They may

Some people like to follow the band wagon . . . others like to get up on the band wagon . . . in fact if we are all honest we will admit that we like to ride right up on the band wagon with a great lot of people . . . but we won't really admit that fact until we know for sure if there is a big crowd on the band wagon . . . That is right where we fit into the picture today . . . you and you and every good citizen in this community . . . The Band Wagon is starting down the street . . . in the form of a testimonial dinner for Col. Rockwell . . . the dinner to be held next Thursday evening . . . The Band Wagon is filling up with people who are really interested in the future of New Castle . . . due to limitations in the Cathedral dining room facilities . . . it will be necessary to know almost exactly by Monday afternoon just how many people are riding the band wagon . . . So if you want to be smart . . . and do right by yourself, your business and your city . . . you really ought to make known your desire by buying your Rockwell tickets over the week-end.

For the convenience of those who will be unable to call personally at the GNCA office in the Castleton Hotel Building . . . arrangements have been made to have tickets available at the People's Drug Store on Sunday . . . between the hours of 10 a. m. and 7 p. m.

Or if you prefer, call in your order to the GNCA office; the number 879 . . . There are people out on the street . . . calling on the various places of business . . . but that doesn't answer the problem of the many hundreds of people who are not in business in the downtown area . . . Personally we feel that many people will want to see and hear this great man of industry . . . But we don't want these people disappointed by not being able to buy a ticket for the affair by waiting until next week . . . It will be impossible for the 440 OES (servers of the dinner) to prepare enough food unless they know for sure Monday just how many plan on attending . . . That's why, friends, it's so very important that we know right away if you are going to ride the band wagon for this great occasion.

Now, before you do another thing . . . buy your ticket . . . men, women and young boys and girls of the family . . . meet Col. Willard F. Rockwell.

PROBLEM IN 'CUBE' ROOT

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Example Of People Of Finland

WASHINGTON, March 4—There may be something about living under danger which produces a steadiness of nerve. The example of Findland comes immediately to mind.

A month ago rumors began to circulate widely both in Moscow and in Helsingfors that the Soviets would denouce the Russian-Finnish peace treaty. They would take this step just prior to the election by the Finnish Parliament of a president who would almost certainly be the venerable Juho Paasikivi. Always within the correct framework of the treaty, Paasikivi, has taken a firm line toward the Soviet Union.

The Finnish Communist party is believed to have been given secret assurances from Moscow that at the proper moment the Kremlin would issue a blast. This would be co-ordinated with threatening moves within the country, such as a Communist march on Helsingfors, the capital.

Propaganda Stepped Up

In preceding weeks of propaganda barrage against Finland had been stepped up, growing more menacing and hostile. They were directed at the leaders who were holding th line of political independence.

This was in accord with the pattern of conquest directed against Czechoslovakia in February of 1948. From both within and without every element of attack would be directed toward breaking down the resistance of groups loyal to the concept of an independent democracy. It worked in Czechoslovakia, partly, of course, because such a thorough job of infiltration had been done well in advance.

As the day of the election approached, tensions in Finland mounted. The threatened march seemed about to materialize. Finally, an explosion occurred in the Parliament building itself.

But Moscow at the last moment did not come through with the denunciation of the treaty. Or, to phrase it more cautiously, that has not yet occurred.

Have Shown Good Nerves

The Finns have shown that they have good nerves. They have demonstrated that they do not crack under strain. In my opinion this is one reason Moscow refrained from delivering the ultimate blow from the outside. Here was no pushover to be huffed and puffed into terrified submission.

The Finns had prepared themselves insofar as possible by cleaning Communists out of government positions where they could do damage. They had weighed the risks against the danger. It was not easy, since the Communists had polled approximately 20 per cent of the total vote.

It is just possible that the United States, a country of 150,000,000 people, can learn from the example of Finland, a country of 4,000,000. Above all, it is the lesson that there is no absolute security in the world today and that it is essential to face up to and learn to live with the risks that exist.

Stern Measures Necessary

Some stern measures have been necessary in Finland. But the freedoms of a democratic state have not been abrogated. The Communists freely publish their news papers; they freely electioneer both in the general elections and in the trade unions.

The United States—the territory of Alaska is an exception—is several thousand miles from the borders of Soviet Russia. Oceans separate the two powers. The Communist party in this country is hardly more than a fraction of one per cent of the total voting population.

Yet too often the reaction in this country seems to be one of jittery panic. The face that we show the world seems to be frightened and uncertain. It is as though we doubted our own strength and even our own institutions.

Must Meet Danger

As the Finns have shown, you must take every possible step to meet the danger. But when this has been done, you must be prepared to live with reasonable calm with reasonable calm with the risks that are for many peoples like the hazards of the weather, of intense cold and blizzard. The Finns have adapted themselves to a northerly climate that for long months is dark and sullen. And in the same way they have learned to stand up under the looming shadow of their great and jealous neighbor.

In his Reader's Digest article, George F. Kennan, counselor of the State department, writes of the intense interest of the rest of the world in this country and its material development. "What the outside world is more eager to know," Kennan adds, "is whether we are capable of coping with the sociological and spiritual strains placed upon us by all this abundance. It is eager to know whether we are going to be able to retain, in a mechanized environment, the individuality, the emotional tone and the civic vigor of earlier generations of Americans."

Those are words well worth pondering. And so is the example of the steadfast people of Finland, who live always under the sword of danger.

Folks Of Fame

Paul Revere, American patriot was born in Boston, Mass., Jan. 1, 1735. He had little schooling but learned the trade of gold and silversmith in his father's shop. He became a proficient copper engraver. He was a member of the Boston grand jury that refused to serve in 1774 because the British parliament had made the justices independent of the people. He was a leader in the Boston Tea Party; was one of the mechanics who patrolled the streets to watch movements of British troops and was sent to Portsmouth to urge seizure of military stores there. His midnight ride from Charlestown to Lexington in 1775 gave warning of the approach of British troops from Boston. After the war he engaged in the manufacture of gold and silverware and pioneered in the production of copper-plating and copper spikes for ships. He died in Boston May 10, 1818.

Any of you middle-aged folk remember this woman, Mabel Normand, was a favorite star of the silent screen. Born in Boston, Mass., she started her screen career with the old Vitagraph, Biograph and Keystone companies. Indeed, she was one of the bathing beatuies in those old pictures—never to be forgotten. She starred in Fatty and Mabel, Fatty and Mabel Adrift, Pat, Mickey, Mickey Gets Ready, The Venus Model, Peck's Bad Girl, Sis Hopkins, Upstairs, What Happened to Rosa, Oh, Mabel Behave, Susanna, etc. She died in 1930.

"Too Bad, It's Almost Good"

By PAUL GALLICO

I would like to know how it is with you and other people? Every time I buy something I think is good, or antique, or valuable, or original, or the McCoy, I get stuck. It ain't. Is this only my life's pattern to be the boob and the fall guy when it comes to buying something or does it happen to everyone and is that the way the world is organized?

Do you too meet the Little Man who gazes sadly at your purchase whatever it happens to be, walks around it, studies it morosely, finally shakes his head with a sigh and says, "Too bad. It's almost good. I saw a lovely one only the other day, a genuine one. This of course has been tampered with. How much did you pay for it? Tsk, tsk, tsk. Pity! Would have been worth it if it were real. Oh, it isn't ALL fake. It just isn't as good as it ought to be. If you went to sell it you'd get about a tenth of what you paid for it. Of course, the market on these things is very bad now anyway. Too bad you didn't wait to buy it. The prices are coming down."

Can't Be The Only One

Buy High and Sell Low Gallico, they call me. But I can't be the only one. "I can't be supporting all the wise guys. There must be other who get caught up in the same rhythm and can't get out.

Sometimes it's only a matter of days or inches by which I miss it. Last autumn in Paris, for instance, I bought a new Citroen car for $1450. Three days after I paid for it—count 'em, three—devaluation set in and the same buggy thereafter retailed at $1100. And even so, the Little Man came around and looks at the one I have and says, "Oh, That one. Pity someone didn't tip you off. You should have got the other one."

The Little Man of course is always different, always someone else, but he always turns up with that sad and recognizing shake of the head and the bad news.

You'd think by now when I saw anything that was marked "Genuine," or "Bargain," or "Opportunity of a Lifetime," I would get wise, put on my track shoes and start running, but I don't. I still buy, figuring that just once, sometime, somewhere, I will acquire something that will be worth if not more than I paid for it, at least as much.

You know, you are always reading about the guy who goes into the grubby little Old Curiosity Shop and says to the proprietor, "How much do you want for that dirty old canvas over there, that no good painting in that bum frame?"

The proprietor says, "Six bucks." The guy pays the six bucks, goes home, washes the canvas, calls in the art appraisers, and Zingo, it turns out he's got a Tintoretto-Verrocchio-Murillo-Michelangelo-Van-Dyke, worth a hundred and eighty-four million dollars, which, even with what he pays out in Capital Gains Taxes, ain't bad.

But Not Gallico

But not Gallico. I pay the same six bucks, call in the Little Man who as usual says, "How much you pay for this? Six clams? You got stuck. The old guy put one over on you. Wash the dingy paint job off this thing and you got about a dollar and a half's worth of wood and canvas."

You say, "Don't buy anything without the aid and advice of an expert"? Brothers and sisters, I've tried that too. But the Little Man shows up just the same. His line is now, "Who steered you into buying this rock for your Missus? Jones? Tsk, tsk, tsk. Pity. Good man, Jones, but not on diamonds. He's an emerald man. Smith's the one you should have had on diamonds. He never would have let you get stuck with this one. Oh, it's all right, if you don't get too close to it. Nobody but an expert would notice that flaw at the bottom and the yellow tinge. You could probably sell it for half what you paid for it, but I wouldn't try it now because the bottom has just fallen out of the market. If you'd have waited another week I could have got you one twice as good for a quarter of the money."

I'm supposed to know a little something about antique furniture. I got a joint full of it. Hepplewhite, Chippendale, Sheraton, Adam, Queen Anne, George III, etc., etc. That makes my home a happy hunting ground for the Little Man. He comes in, cocks his head at the Chippendale tallboy and says, "Nice piece that. Of course, you know the moulding isn't genuine. That was added later. Otherwise you really have something there. I like that little Queen Anne table over there. Of course, you've notice the legs. That's an old dealer's trick. Used your legs to patch up another piece. I suppose he charged you full price for that. Oh, it looks fine where it's standing, but you wouldn't be able to sell it if you wanted to."

Of course I paid full price for it. I pay full price for everything. And the Little Men keep telling me that never, never, NEVER have I got what I paid for. I got so mad I could bust when I think about it. Tell me I'm not the only one. . . .

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Oh, that I were a highbrow!

But try as I may, my tastes remain just a step above the gutter level.

What brought this misfortune so clearly to my mind is a questionnaire I received in the mail a couple of weeks ago.

I should have answered it by now. But unless I lie like a trooper, I cannot answer it. The findings are to be published, and I am certainly not going to have myself exposed to the world as an incurable lowbrow. (This here is confidential.)

One of the questions is "What opera do you like best?"

A truthful answer would be, "I not only do not like any opera 'best,' I do not like any opera. Period!"

Several times during our married life my wife has dragged me to the Metropolitan Opera.

You will never know how I suffered!

The only redeeming feature was that I didn't understand a word they sang.

Always there was wild applause. Always a lot of people claimed to be enthralled by the majestey of the performance.

But to me it was just a mass of fat primadonnas and knockkneed tenors in funny costumes shrieking their heads off.

Then, when one or more got killed—as they do in most operas—immediately after their demise they arose and with a happy smile bowed to the cheering audience.

Not that a lot of opera music isn't nice. I like any music that is melodious and touches my heart.

But opera as such is ridiculous to me and an insult to my intelligence.

If you resent my frankness, I apologize. But I still don't like opera.

Another question in the questionaire is "Which of Shakespeare's works do you like best?"

There again I must confess that I don't like Shakespeare.

He is a great writer, perhaps the greatest of them all.

But I don't like him.

I prefer the simple telling of the doing of today and tomorrow to the curlicued and embellished narratives of days gone by.

To me there is more excitement, more entertainment, more information in today's newspaper than in all the volumes of Shakespeare.

And I can hardly wait for tomorrow's newspaper. I know there will be a thrill-packed hour of enjoyment in it.

I could quote many more embarrassing questions in that questionnaire.

But why abase myself still more in your estimation?

I should be thoroughly ashamed of myself.

But I am not. I know that there are millions of people who feel just as I do—people who were over-fed with classical music and classical literature and with museums and galleries when they were young.

So, as with anything that is crammed down our throats we get indigestion and don't ever want to taste it again.

Will you excuse me please? My wife has the radio turned on downstairs.

Somebody is singing "Dear Hearts and Gentle People."

THERE is something I like. THERE is something I can understand.

FUTURE OF THE FALLS

A new Canadian-U. S. treaty to regulate "the uses of the water of the Niagara River" has two main purposes, according to the official announcement released with the signing of the draft by Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong and Secretary of State Dean Acheson. It aims to safeguard the "scenic grandeur" of the Falls. And it would "place the diversions of water from the Niagara River for power purposes on a permanent legal foundation."

Niagara Falls should be handed to posterity in its majesty and it is good that Canada and the United States, sharing the responsibility for protecting their joint heritage, should cooperate in this task. It seems logical, too, that the legal basis for diverting water to create power should be definitely established so that this natural resource can be utilized as fully as possible—under private enterprise—without destroying the beauty of the Falls.

Whether the treaty would achieve these ends, if ratified by the Senate, is another matter. One account reports that it would result in "a vast increase in the power output" of the river. There is no question about that, apparently, as the water subject to diversion would rise from 36,000 to 100,000 cubic feet a sceond. What is less clear is whether there would be enough left to preserve the spectacle millions now go to see each year.

Certainly it is good that certain "remedial works" to maintain the flow over the Falls and preserve an unbroken crestline are contemplated by the treaty. Nevertheless, the Senate should make sure that the treaty, if ratified, will do what it purports to do. This generation has enough to answer for without making mistakes that would deprive posterity of Niagara Falls in its full glory.

PROPAGANDA AND THE RUBLE

The chief sufferers from the action of the Kremlin in revaluing the ruble will be the people of the satellite countries, and those foolish enough to regard this move as evidence thata the Soviet economy is strong in comparison with the economies of non-totalitarian countries.

While the Russian people may gain briefly from this upward pricing of the ruble, because it means lower prices for the things they buy, the fact remains that all prices in Russia are controlled by the Kremlin, and juggling them doesn't raise the amount of goods available. That, according to all evidence, is far below the needs of the millions of Russians.

Satellite countries, however, will lose on the deal. Increasing the ruble's value means that Poland, Czechoslovakia and other Red-dominated states will pay more for the thin trickle of goods they receive from Russia, and will be paid less for the large amounts of their own products they are forced to send to the Soviet Union.

But the Russians obviously don't believe their own propaganda that the ruble can stand up against the dollar and other currencies. The Russian currency still is not circulated in foreign trade.

If the Kremlin wants to make good this boast, it will have to do more than tinker with the ruble. It will have to open Russia and the Kremlin satellites to world trade, and prove that the Soviet economy can exist in competition with the free world.

RIGHT DRESS!

It was as inevitable as reveille—the Army has announced restyled uniforms for its feminine warriors, designed to make them personalized bombshells. The glamorized wardrobe reflects the fine Parisian hand of Hattie Carnegie, fresh from creating the wedding suits of Mrs. Alben Barkley and Mrs. William O'Dwyer.

Hattie has taken out a little here and put in a little there, banned the neckties and put a saucy tilt to the visored hats. The results were modeled at an Army fashion show and it's said several generals, about to be mustered out for age, have asked for extensions of active duty.

Emphasis of the new siren suits is on individuality. Starting January, 1951, there will be distinctive decors for Wacs, Army nurses and the women's medical specialist corps. And each group will have separate ensembles for winter and summer wear, not to mention smartly tailored slacks for casual around-the-barracks use. The gals took to wearing nylon hose and high-heeled shoes before the shooting stopped in the last war.

Morale is an important phase of soldiering, regardless of sex, and if Uncle Sam wants his nieces to keep trooping to the colors he's got to make life interesting.

Germans Plan 'Defense Army'

Full details of a German plan to establish a "defense army" of between 450 thousand and 750 thousand men have fallen today into the hands of western allied information officers—as they were no doubt supposed to.

It is backed by a miltiary group known as "the German brotherhood" and one of the leading figures is Gen. Kurt Hasso Von Manteuffel, a former Prussian general staff occier who has been cleared of Nazism and quite obviously is active on the political front in the capital city and at Frankfurt.

Manteuffel is believer to have had several conferences with Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer. He also probably was one of the men questioned when allied authorities carried out a survey to determine the attitude of former German officers and war veterans in the event of an actual armed clash between East and West.

The "brotherhood" plan is interesting and perhaps important on two counts.

First, it pictures Germany as the natural buffer between East and West which must be strengthened as part of any over-all strategy looking toward the possibility of Soviet aggression in Europe.

Second, it rejects the idea of any "token" German armed force such as one ranging from three to five divisions. In recent unofficial discussions regarding Germany's position in event of conflict, France, always fearful of a German miliatry resurgence, was said to be willing to agree to some such small military establishment.

No Re-Armament

Secretary of State Acheson and U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy have said repeatedly that there is to be no German re-armament and no German air force, and that all possibilities along this line are excluded from the outset.

There presumably is nothing, however, to prevent old-time German officers from day-dreaming and reading up on Von Clausewitz.

They have, in any case, come up with this manifesto asserting that a "token" force would be nothing but cannon fodder, due for annihilation and that the most service it possibly could perform would be to permit western Germany's neighbors to "sleep a few nights longer."

On the other hand, the German generals maintain that a real army of from 30 to 50 crack motorized divisions could be a real force for peace and might hold any crisis in balance until American resources could be brought to bear.

Dangerous Thinking

This type of German thinking is held in many quarters to be dangerous in the extreme.

It is described as the very essence of Nationalism, and it is taken for granted that in any kind of German system, Nationalism means militarism, and militarism means eventual aggression.

In addition, the generals' plan might have some distinct and perilous popular appeal, as it speaks of the inherent "right" of any peoples to own the wherewithal for defense against aggression.

It is an unaswered question, as a matter of fact, to what extent the Germans—civilians and ex-soldiers like—might enter into the spirit of any new war.

They had two crippling experiences within a generation.

It is very likely that in event of a real new crisis they might look for personal salvation rather than military glory. They certainly know they would be in the dead center of a clash between East and West with no hope of anything except complete destruction as their share of the proceedings.

Manteuffel's impressive plan—bristling with numbers and potential military might—may well be a thing of far more shadow than of substance.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TELLING ADOPTED CHILD BEST PLAN

I alway admire the couple who adopt a child and learn to love him as if he were of their own flesh and blood. But it does worry me to learn of many adoptive parents who don't tell their child he was adopted.

The facts are almost certain to come out by and by and when they do, the harm to the inner feelings of the adopted child and to his relationships with his adoptive parents can be tragic. Some thing more happens in the meanwhile to the adoptive parents inside. Constantly aware that the child does not know the fact and ever on guard lest they might themselves let the fact slip out, the adoptive parents experience all sorts of emotional conflicts. And the child senses these conflicts without knowing anything about the causes and, therefore, feels more or less insecure. Such emotions just can't be hidden.

Friendly Letters

But first, I want to tell you of many trustful, friendly letters I receive, whether from remotest places in our own nation or in Canada. When, for instance, a mother writes me from British Columbia that she often wished she could have a heart to heart talk with me and ask me many questions and tell me of her family and her worry over not having told her adopted son, twelve he was adopted, and finally closes with "May God bless you in your wonderful work every day and bring you lots of health and happiness." I just feel I must try my best to approach, at least, her expectations. Yet she and I are total strangers and citizens of different nations. Such trustful friendship between lots of individuals in different nations ought to make these nations feel themselves parts of one happy family. Now to quote:

"I have a little boy whom I adopted when he was four months old. He is now past twelve years of age.

"When he was almost three my husband died. I had to go out to work to keep us. My mother kept the baby for me while I worked. After almost six years I married again so that I could have a home for my little boy. I have a very fine husband who is kind and good. He sets a good example and helps our boy with his school lessons and tries to be a real dad to him. He is anxious for him to do well and have every chance that we can give him. Of course, we are just ordinary working people, but our home life is what a boy needs. We all enjoy good books and music and lots of clean fun.

"Here is something that worries me continually, and I would like you to advise me. When we took this child we knew very little about him. Except like so many others, his little mother was unmarried, and had to let him out for adoption. He doesn't know that I am not his own mother, and I often wonder if he should be told. I couldn't hurt him in any way and want him to be happy always. He has a very sensitive nature, loving and kind and generous. I couldn't possibly love him more than I do. I'm sure you can understand how I feel. The pont is I don't want someone else to tell him the truth some day and hurt him badly. Would you write me and tell me just what would be best to do.

I answered this mother and quoted the last sentence of her letter as my wishes to her. Yes, I know how you feel. I wish I could sit down and talk with you. I'm sure I culd prevail on you to tell that boy at once. Choose a time when you, your husband and the boy are lolling comfortably together. Say to the lad something like this: "You know that a baby grows on its mother's body. You did not grow in my body. Your real mother wasn't able to keep you and care for you but I chose you as my child when you were a tiny baby and I have always loved you and I always will."

FAVORS

A favor is something that's good to bestow;
But ask one, and then it's a debt
that you owe.

The favor you grant you should promptly forget;
But the favor you ask you may later regret.

If you seek admitance to ball
game or show,
Step up to the window and pay
as you go.

Beware of fine gifts. They may not be for you,
But for something that's wanted which you shouldn't do.

My boy, unto others try helpful to be:
But ask for a favor, no longer
you're free.

They Say

WASHINGTON—Air Secretary Symington: "In my opinion, the best defense we can have is the strength of an instant and devastating retaliatory attack, regardless of the year."

ROME—Pope Piux XII: "The world today has become the servant of hate and discord and finds itself in a terrible state."

MINNEAPOLIS—Farm Bureau President Allan B. Kline: "Experience has taught us that paying for things by way of Washington is not the way to save money. A dollar seldom travels to Washington and comes back whole."

NEW YORK—Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger: "Since by constitution Japan has renounced war and we have introduced democracy, then we have a moral obligation to guarantee her security."

PROBLEM IN 'CUBE' ROOT

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Example Of People Of Finland

WASHINGTON, March 4—There may be something about living under danger which produces a steadiness of nerve. The example of Findland comes immediately to mind.

A month ago rumors began to circulate widely both in Moscow and in Helsingfors that the Soviets would denouce the Russian-Finnish peace treaty. They would take this step just prior to the election by the Finnish Parliament of a president who would almost certainly be the venerable Juho Paasikivi. Always within the correct framework of the treaty, Paasikivi, has taken a firm line toward the Soviet Union.

The Finnish Communist party is believed to have been given secret assurances from Moscow that at the proper moment the Kremlin would issue a blast. This would be co-ordinated with threatening moves within the country, such as a Communist march on Helsingfors, the capital.

Propaganda Stepped Up

In preceding weeks of propaganda barrage against Finland had been stepped up, growing more menacing and hostile. They were directed at the leaders who were holding th line of political independence.

This was in accord with the pattern of conquest directed against Czechoslovakia in February of 1948. From both within and without every element of attack would be directed toward breaking down the resistance of groups loyal to the concept of an independent democracy. It worked in Czechoslovakia, partly, of course, because such a thorough job of infiltration had been done well in advance.

As the day of the election approached, tensions in Finland mounted. The threatened march seemed about to materialize. Finally, an explosion occurred in the Parliament building itself.

But Moscow at the last moment did not come through with the denunciation of the treaty. Or, to phrase it more cautiously, that has not yet occurred.

Have Shown Good Nerves

The Finns have shown that they have good nerves. They have demonstrated that they do not crack under strain. In my opinion this is one reason Moscow refrained from delivering the ultimate blow from the outside. Here was no pushover to be huffed and puffed into terrified submission.

The Finns had prepared themselves insofar as possible by cleaning Communists out of government positions where they could do damage. They had weighed the risks against the danger. It was not easy, since the Communists had polled approximately 20 per cent of the total vote.

It is just possible that the United States, a country of 150,000,000 people, can learn from the example of Finland, a country of 4,000,000. Above all, it is the lesson that there is no absolute security in the world today and that it is essential to face up to and learn to live with the risks that exist.

Stern Measures Necessary

Some stern measures have been necessary in Finland. But the freedoms of a democratic state have not been abrogated. The Communists freely publish their news papers; they freely electioneer both in the general elections and in the trade unions.

The United States—the territory of Alaska is an exception—is several thousand miles from the borders of Soviet Russia. Oceans separate the two powers. The Communist party in this country is hardly more than a fraction of one per cent of the total voting population.

Yet too often the reaction in this country seems to be one of jittery panic. The face that we show the world seems to be frightened and uncertain. It is as though we doubted our own strength and even our own institutions.

Must Meet Danger

As the Finns have shown, you must take every possible step to meet the danger. But when this has been done, you must be prepared to live with reasonable calm with reasonable calm with the risks that are for many peoples like the hazards of the weather, of intense cold and blizzard. The Finns have adapted themselves to a northerly climate that for long months is dark and sullen. And in the same way they have learned to stand up under the looming shadow of their great and jealous neighbor.

In his Reader's Digest article, George F. Kennan, counselor of the State department, writes of the intense interest of the rest of the world in this country and its material development. "What the outside world is more eager to know," Kennan adds, "is whether we are capable of coping with the sociological and spiritual strains placed upon us by all this abundance. It is eager to know whether we are going to be able to retain, in a mechanized environment, the individuality, the emotional tone and the civic vigor of earlier generations of Americans."

Those are words well worth pondering. And so is the example of the steadfast people of Finland, who live always under the sword of danger.

Folks Of Fame

Paul Revere, American patriot was born in Boston, Mass., Jan. 1, 1735. He had little schooling but learned the trade of gold and silversmith in his father's shop. He became a proficient copper engraver. He was a member of the Boston grand jury that refused to serve in 1774 because the British parliament had made the justices independent of the people. He was a leader in the Boston Tea Party; was one of the mechanics who patrolled the streets to watch movements of British troops and was sent to Portsmouth to urge seizure of military stores there. His midnight ride from Charlestown to Lexington in 1775 gave warning of the approach of British troops from Boston. After the war he engaged in the manufacture of gold and silverware and pioneered in the production of copper-plating and copper spikes for ships. He died in Boston May 10, 1818.

Any of you middle-aged folk remember this woman, Mabel Normand, was a favorite star of the silent screen. Born in Boston, Mass., she started her screen career with the old Vitagraph, Biograph and Keystone companies. Indeed, she was one of the bathing beatuies in those old pictures—never to be forgotten. She starred in Fatty and Mabel, Fatty and Mabel Adrift, Pat, Mickey, Mickey Gets Ready, The Venus Model, Peck's Bad Girl, Sis Hopkins, Upstairs, What Happened to Rosa, Oh, Mabel Behave, Susanna, etc. She died in 1930.

From Me To You

By MESEEALL

Some people like to follow the band wagon . . . others like to get up on the band wagon . . . in fact if we are all honest we will admit that we like to ride right up on the band wagon with a great lot of people . . . but we won't really admit that fact until we know for sure if there is a big crowd on the band wagon . . . That is right where we fit into the picture today . . . you and you and every good citizen in this community . . . The Band Wagon is starting down the street . . . in the form of a testimonial dinner for Col. Rockwell . . .the dinner to be held next Thursday evening . . . The Band Wagon is filling up with people who are really interested in the future of New Castle . . . due to limitations in the Cathedral dining room facilities . . . it will be necessary to know almost exactly by Monday afternoon just how many people are riding the band wagon . . . So if you want to be smart . . . and do right by yourself, your business and your city . . . you really ought to make known your desire by buying your Rockwell tickets over the week-end.

For the convenience of those who will be unable to call personally at the GNCA office in the Castleton Hotel Building . . . arrangements have been made to have tickets available at the People's Drug Store on Sunday . . . between the hours of 10 a. m. and 7 p. m.

Or if you prefer, call in your order to the GNCA office; the number 879 . . . There are people out on the street . . . calling on the various places of business . . . but that doesn't answer the problem of the many hundreds of people who are not in business in the downtown area . . . Personally we feel that many people will want to see and hear this great man of industry . . . But we don't want these people disappointed by not being able to buy a ticket for the affair by waiting until next week . . . It will be impossible for the 440 OES (servers of the dinner) to prepare enough food unless they know for sure Monday just how many plan on attending . . . That's why, friends, it's so very important that we know right away if you are going to ride the band wagon for this great occasion.

Now, before you do another thing . . . buy your ticket . . . men, women and young boys and girls of the family . . . meet Col. Willard F. Rockwell.

"Too Bad, It's Almost Good"

By PAUL GALLICO

I would like to know how it is with you and other people? Every time I buy something I think is good, or antique, or valuable, or original, or the McCoy, I get stuck. It ain't. Is this only my life's pattern to be the boob and the fall guy when it comes to buying something or does it happen to everyone and is that the way the world is organized?

Do you too meet the Little Man who gazes sadly at your purchase whatever it happens to be, walks around it, studies it morosely, finally shakes his head with a sigh and says, "Too bad. It's almost good. I saw a lovely one only the other day, a genuine one. This of course has been tampered with. How much did you pay for it? Tsk, tsk, tsk. Pity! Would have been worth it if it were real. Oh, it isn't ALL fake. It just isn't as good as it ought to be. If you went to sell it you'd get about a tenth of what you paid for it. Of course, the market on these things is very bad now anyway. Too bad you didn't wait to buy it. The prices are coming down."

Can't Be The Only One

Buy High and Sell Low Gallico, they call me. But I can't be the only one. "I can't be supporting all the wise guys. There must be other who get caught up in the same rhythm and can't get out.

Sometimes it's only a matter of days or inches by which I miss it. Last autumn in Paris, for instance, I bought a new Citroen car for $1450. Three days after I paid for it—count 'em, three—devaluation set in and the same buggy thereafter retailed at $1100. And even so, the Little Man came around and looks at the one I have and says, "Oh, That one. Pity someone didn't tip you off. You should have got the other one."

The Little Man of course is always different, always someone else, but he always turns up with that sad and recognizing shake of the head and the bad news.

You'd think by now when I saw anything that was marked "Genuine," or "Bargain," or "Opportunity of a Lifetime," I would get wise, put on my track shoes and start running, but I don't. I still buy, figuring that just once, sometime, somewhere, I will acquire something that will be worth if not more than I paid for it, at least as much.

You know, you are always reading about the guy who goes into the grubby little Old Curiosity Shop and says to the proprietor, "How much do you want for that dirty old canvas over there, that no good painting in that bum frame?"

The proprietor says, "Six bucks." The guy pays the six bucks, goes home, washes the canvas, calls in the art appraisers, and Zingo, it turns out he's got a Tintoretto-Verrocchio-Murillo-Michelangelo-Van-Dyke, worth a hundred and eighty-four million dollars, which, even with what he pays out in Capital Gains Taxes, ain't bad.

But Not Gallico

But not Gallico. I pay the same six bucks, call in the Little Man who as usual says, "How much you pay for this? Six clams? You got stuck. The old guy put one over on you. Wash the dingy paint job off this thing and you got about a dollar and a half's worth of wood and canvas."

You say, "Don't buy anything without the aid and advice of an expert"? Brothers and sisters, I've tried that too. But the Little Man shows up just the same. His line is now, "Who steered you into buying this rock for your Missus? Jones? Tsk, tsk, tsk. Pity. Good man, Jones, but not on diamonds. He's an emerald man. Smith's the one you should have had on diamonds. He never would have let you get stuck with this one. Oh, it's all right, if you don't get too close to it. Nobody but an expert would notice that flaw at the bottom and the yellow tinge. You could probably sell it for half what you paid for it, but I wouldn't try it now because the bottom has just fallen out of the market. If you'd have waited another week I could have got you one twice as good for a quarter of the money."

I'm supposed to know a little something about antique furniture. I got a joint full of it. Hepplewhite, Chippendale, Sheraton, Adam, Queen Anne, George III, etc., etc. That makes my home a happy hunting ground for the Little Man. He comes in, cocks his head at the Chippendale tallboy and says, "Nice piece that. Of course, you know the moulding isn't genuine. That was added later. Otherwise you really have something there. I like that little Queen Anne table over there. Of course, you've notice the legs. That's an old dealer's trick. Used your legs to patch up another piece. I suppose he charged you full price for that. Oh, it looks fine where it's standing, but you wouldn't be able to sell it if you wanted to."

Of course I paid full price for it. I pay full price for everything. And the Little Men keep telling me that never, never, NEVER have I got what I paid for. I got so mad I could bust when I think about it. Tell me I'm not the only one. . . .

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Oh, that I were a highbrow!

But try as I may, my tastes remain just a step above the gutter level.

What brought this misfortune so clearly to my mind is a questionnaire I received in the mail a couple of weeks ago.

I should have answered it by now. But unless I lie like a trooper, I cannot answer it. The findings are to be published, and I am certainly not going to have myself exposed to the world as an incurable lowbrow. (This here is confidential.)

One of the questions is "What opera do you like best?"

A truthful answer would be, "I not only do not like any opera 'best,' I, do not like any opera. Period!"

Several times during our married life my wife has dragged me to the Metropolitan Opera.

You will never know how I suffered!

The only redeeming feature was that I didn't understand a word they sang.

Always there was wild applause. Always a lot of people claimed to be enthralled by the majestey of the performance.

But to me it was just a mass of fat primadonnas and knockkneed tenors in funny costumes shrieking their heads off.

Then, when one or more got killed—as they do in most operas—immediately after their demise they arose and with a happy smile bowed to the cheering audience.

Not that a lot of opera music isn't nice. I like any music that is melodious and touches my heart.

But opera as such is ridiculous to me and an insult to my intelligence.

If you resent my frankness, I apologize. But I still don't like opera.

Another question in the questionaire is "Which of Shakespeare's works do you like best?"

There again I must confess that I don't like Shakespeare.

He is a great writer, perhaps the greatest of them all.

But I don't like him.

I prefer the simple telling of the doing of today and tomorrow to the curlicued and embellished narratives of days gone by.

To me there is more excitement, more entertainment, more information in today's newspaper than in all the volumes of Shakespeare.

And I can hardly wait for tomorrow's newspaper. I know there will be a thrill-packed hour of enjoyment in it.

I could quote many more embarrassing questions in that questionnaire.

But why abase myself still more in your estimation?

I should be thoroughly ashamed of myself.

But I am not. I know that there are millions of people who feel just as I do—people who were over-fed with classical music and classical literature and with museums and galleries when they were young.

So, as with anything that is crammed down our throats we get indigestion and don't ever want to taste it again.

Will you excuse me please? My wife has the radio turned on downstairs.

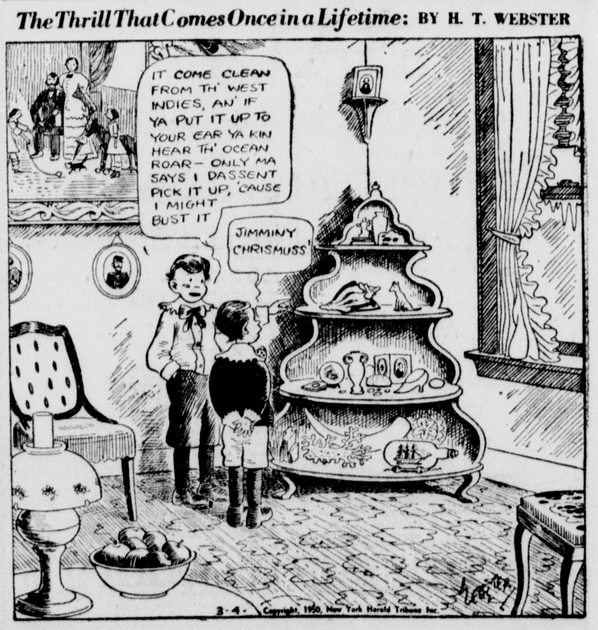

Somebody is singing "Dear Hearts and Gentle People."

THERE is something I like. THERE is something I can understand.

Coal Shortage Hits Pittsburgh Hospital

PITTSBURGH, March 4—(INS)—Mercy hospital in Pittsburgh cancelled all but emergency operations because the "poor quality" of coal received by the hospital cannot build up the pressure needed for unlimited sterilizing and laundry.

A hospital spokesman said: "It just isn't heat. We need pressure for laundry, sterilizing, and all sorts of things."

Patients in for "elective" surgery will have to wait. Admissions also are being restricted to emergency cases, the spokesman said.

Hospital Auxiliary Makes Future Plans

Ladies Auxiliary of the New Castle hospital met Thursday afternoon in the Nurses' home, South Mercer street. President, Mrs. Jessie Stenger, gave an account of the dance given for the students of the School of Nursing and sponsored by the auxiliary.

Woman Loses Life In Newark, N. J., Fire

NEWARK, N. J., March 4.—(INS)—An unidentified woman was fatally injured today when a four alarm fire swept a four-story apartment house at 7 Thomas street, and drove 35 persons dressed in night clothes to the street.

Fire fighters, who experienced their busiest 24 hours in years, battled the blaze for two and one-half hours before it was brought under control.

Police said the woman apparently met death when she fell in the hallway while attempting to escape.

The firefighters rushed to the Thomas street blaze after successfully battling a 90-minute four alarm fire at the abandoned Washington street school now used as a welfare center.

In 1907, 338,450 inhabitants of Austria-Hungary moved to the United States.

Coal Shortage Hits Pittsburgh Hospital

PITTSBURGH, March 4—(INS)—Mercy hospital in Pittsburgh cancelled all but emergency operations because the "poor quality" of coal received by the hospital cannot build up the pressure needed for unlimited sterilizing and laundry.

A hospital spokesman said: "It just isn't heat. We need pressure for laundry, sterilizing, and all sorts of things."

Patients in for "elective" surgery will have to wait. Admissions also are being restricted to emergency cases, the spokesman said.

Hospital Auxiliary Makes Future Plans

Ladies Auxiliary of the New Castle hospital met Thursday afternoon in the Nurses' home, South Mercer street. President, Mrs. Jessie Stenger, gave an account of the dance given for the students of the School of Nursing and sponsored by the auxiliary.

A vote of thanks was received from the nurses and their directors, Sister Lawrence Mary. Interesting reports were then read by the chairmen of the various projects. Plans are about complete for the Adrian Fisher Ginsberg concert to be held at the Cathedral on April 12. This is a joint project of the auxiliary and the women's board.

Mrs. Anthony Marino spoke on behalf of the Wolves auxiliary and stated they are buying new furnishings for the second floor sun room in the hospital. Thanks were extended to the Wolves auxiliary.

Sister Mary Johns, hospital supervisor, gave a detailed description of plans for the new hospital addition to be built in the near future.

A social period followed the business meeting. Mrs. Fae Pitzer was hostess, aided by Mrs. Charles Jameson, Mrs. D. A. Gibley, Mrs. Joseph Cox, Mrs. Hulda Doerr Mrs. Paul Zaremba, and Mrs. Ben Ciccone. The next meeting will be held on April 6.

Woman Loses Life In Newark, N. J., Fire

NEWARK, N. J., March 4.—(INS)—An unidentified woman was fatally injured today when a four alarm fire swept a four-story apartment house at 7 Thomas street, and drove 35 persons dressed in night clothes to the street.

Fire fighters, who experienced their busiest 24 hours in years, battled the blaze for two and one-half hours before it was brought under control.

Police said the woman apparently met death when she fell in the hallway while attempting to escape.

The firefighters rushed to the Thomas street blaze after successfully battling a 90-minute four alarm fire at the abandoned Washington street school now used as a welfare center.

In 1907, 338,450 inhabitants of Austria-Hungary moved to the United States.

The CHURCHES of CHRIST SALUTE YOU Rom. 16:16
IDENITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH
We know the New Testament church is in existence today because it could not be destroyed—Dan 2:44, Isa 9:6,7, Lk 1:30-32, and the gates of hell cannot prevail against it Matt 16:18. Further, the presence of counterfeits is proof that the genuine exists. The New Testament church is identified by its name. Christ is its ONLY head. Col 1:18. It is named for Christ Eph 3:14,15. Its members wear but one name, Christian, Acts 11:26. It began at Jerusalem, Acts 1:8, 2:5-14. Its origin dates from Pentecost AD 33, Acts 2:1. Its "charter members" were Jews. Any church founded by the Gentiles is not the N. T. church. The N. T. is its only rule of faith and practice. Each local congregation governs itself. It observes weekly communion, partaking of the Lord's Supper every Lord's day, Acts 20:7. It sings without instrumental accompaniment. It is financed by a single contribution upon the first day of the week, I Cor 16:1,2. It must preach the same Gospel as the Apostles preached. Mk 16:15,16 — Acts 2:38. Investigation will prove these statements true.

The CHURCHES of CHRIST SALUTE YOU Rom. 16:16
IDENITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH
We know the New Testament church is in existence today because it could not be destroyed—Dan 2:44, Isa 9:6,7, Lk 1:30-32, and the gates of hell cannot prevail against it Matt 16:18. Further, the presence of counterfeits is proof that the genuine exists. The New Testament church is identified by its name. Christ is its ONLY head. Col 1:18. It is named for Christ Eph 3:14,15. Its members wear but one name, Christian, Acts 11:26. It began at Jerusalem, Acts 1:8, 2:5-14. Its origin dates from Pentecost AD 33, Acts 2:1. Its "charter members" were Jews. Any church founded by the Gentiles is not the N. T. church. The N. T. is its only rule of faith and practice. Each local congregation governs itself. It observes weekly communion, partaking of the Lord's Supper every Lord's day, Acts 20:7. It sings without instrumental accompaniment. It is financed by a single contribution upon the first day of the week, I Cor 16:1,2. It must preach the same Gospel as the Apostles preached. Mk 16:15,16 — Acts 2:38. Investigation will prove these statements true.

Second Report Reveals Gains

Sunday Schools Are Adding New Members

North Side Community church, Bethel Baptist, Nazarene and the Ellwood City U. P. churches are the second week leaders in the annual pre-Easter Sunday school contest which is in progress in the city and county.

The Bethel Baptist and Ellwood churches are new leaders for their divisions while the Northside Community and Nazarenes hold their first place positions. According to Mrs. Myra Elliott, county secretary, she is not receiving some reports while others are not completed or fails to have the name of the Sunday school. All cards should have the Sunday school name, percentage figured out and signed by the superintendent or secretary.

New York State Super Highway Is Now Proposed

ALBANY, N. Y., March 4.—(INS)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York recommended today creation of an authority to finance and build "the finest highway route in the world"—a 526-mile thruway from the heart of New York City to Buffalo and the Pennsylvania border.

The governor said he also would ask the legislature, in a special message, to approve a constitutional amendment placing the credit of the state behind the authority bonds, thereby saving an estimated $100,000,000 in interest charges on the $450,000,000 project.

The superhighway, which eventually will be six lanes wide, will be paid for by special fees for its use.

FUNDAMENTAL PROTESTANT DOCTRINES

What Price Liberty?

In America we cherish our civil and religious liberty. Our Declaration of Independence does not ascribe the blessing of liberty to our forefathers' wisdom or their hard work—it declares that Freedom is an endowment by our Creator and is the right of every man.

But liberty is a rare thing. Large areas of the world do not have it today and for many centuries the lamp of freedom burned very low. Religious liberty in particular has often been very restricted. The early Christians suffered civil penalties for their religious faith and the practice of forcing religious convictions by temporal penalties is still upheld by many.

The Christian Church at first had nothing to do with politics or temporal power. The Emperor Constantine in the fourth century made Christianity for the first time a State religion. In the Dark Ages, the Church acquired large dominions and wielded important political influence in the Holy Roman Empire and elsewhere. Much of Europe and South America even today follows the Medieval tradition with the full approval of the Churches concerned. Separation of Church and State, so clearly taught in Matthew 22:21 is a peculiarly American and Protestant development. And who shall say that the United States has not been greatly blessed with freedom from turmoil and religious persecution because we have insisted upon this principle?

Union of Church and State during the Middle Ages resulted in the government's giving fines, torture, and even death as penalties for religious offenses. The Medieval Church officially concurred in this practice. John Hus was burned at the stake following condemnation by the Church Council of Constance of 1414. Luther himself lived under sentence of death for fourteen years because of his Protestant convictions. The American colonies were not without fault. Massachusetts began with intolerance. The law of Maryland in 1650 gave the death penalty for denying the doctrines of the Trinity. Calvin himself had Servetus executed for his Unitarian views. Not being infallible, Calvin acted like the other religionists of his time and made an error which all fundamental Protestants regret. But surely it is a greater mistake to perpetuate these errors of the Medieval Church after the light of liberty has dawned.

What price liberty? Patrick Henry declared that civil liberty is more precious than life. The sufferings of many under the Inquisition testify that religious liberty is to be valued even more. But Jesus speaks of a yet higher liberty. To the Pharisees He said, "Whoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." And again, "If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." This sort of liberty is the most priceless thing of all and is available to each one who puts his trust in Jesus Christ as divine Saviour. Liberty from sin is to be had for the asking. This is the faith of Protestantism.

If you would like to know more about the Biblical teaching on the separation of Church and State and how the doctrine is today officially denied by various Churches and governments, write for our pamphlet No. 4 "Liberty and Life."

New York State Super Highway Is Now Proposed

ALBANY, N. Y., March 4.—(INS)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York recommended today creation of an authority to finance and build "the finest highway route in the world"—a 526-mile thruway from the heart of New York City to Buffalo and the Pennsylvania border.

The governor said he also would ask the legislature, in a special message, to approve a constitutional amendment placing the credit of the state behind the authority bonds, thereby saving an estimated $100,000,000 in interest charges on the $450,000,000 project.

The superhighway, which eventually will be six lanes wide, will be paid for by special fees for its use.

FUNDAMENTAL PROTESTANT DOCTRINES

What Price Liberty?

In America we cherish our civil and religious liberty. Our Declaration of Independence does not ascribe the blessing of liberty to our forefathers' wisdom or their hard work—it declares that Freedom is an endowment by our Creator and is the right of every man.

But liberty is a rare thing. Large areas of the world do not have it today and for many centuries the lamp of freedom burned very low. Religious liberty in particular has often been very restricted. The early Christians suffered civil penalties for their religious faith and the practice of forcing religious convictions by temporal penalties is still upheld by many.

The Christian Church at first had nothing to do with politics or temporal power. The Emperor Constantine in the fourth century made Christianity for the first time a State religion. In the Dark Ages, the Church acquired large dominions and wielded important political influence in the Holy Roman Empire and elsewhere. Much of Europe and South America even today follows the Medieval tradition with the full approval of the Churches concerned. Separation of Church and State, so clearly taught in Matthew 22:21 is a peculiarly American and Protestant development. And who shall say that the United States has not been greatly blessed with freedom from turmoil and religious persecution because we have insisted upon this principle?

Union of Church and State during the Middle Ages resulted in the government's giving fines, torture, and even death as penalties for religious offenses. The Medieval Church officially concurred in this practice. John Hus was burned at the stake following condemnation by the Church Council of Constance of 1414. Luther himself lived under sentence of death for fourteen years because of his Protestant convictions. The American colonies were not without fault. Massachusetts began with intolerance. The law of Maryland in 1650 gave the death penalty for denying the doctrines of the Trinity. Calvin himself had Servetus executed for his Unitarian views. Not being infallible, Calvin acted like the other religionists of his time and made an error which all fundamental Protestants regret. But surely it is a greater mistake to perpetuate these errors of the Medieval Church after the light of liberty has dawned.

What price liberty? Patrick Henry declared that civil liberty is more precious than life. The sufferings of many under the Inquisition testify that religious liberty is to be valued even more. But Jesus speaks of a yet higher liberty. To the Pharisees He said, "Whoever committeth sin is the servant of sin." And again, "If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." This sort of liberty is the most priceless thing of all and is available to each one who puts his trust in Jesus Christ as divine Saviour. Liberty from sin is to be had for the asking. This is the faith of Protestantism.

If you would like to know more about the Biblical teaching on the separation of Church and State and how the doctrine is today officially denied by various Churches and governments, write for our pamphlet No. 4 "Liberty and Life."

City's Appeal Is Dismissed

Court Orders Judgment For Margaret Orres

In an order and opinion handed down by Judge John G. Lamoree the verdict of $1000 for Margaret Orres against the city of New Castle is upheld.

Miss Orres was injured on October 5, 1947, when she fell on a sidewalk near West Washington and Greenwood avenue. She claimed the city was negligent in not keeping the sidewalk clean of small stones washed over it from previous rains.

The city asked for judgment N. O. V. (notwithstanding the verdict) and it was this motion that Judge Lamoree refused. Judgment is ordered entered.

MOTION REFUSED

Judge W. Walter Braham has handed down an order and opinion refusing a motion to open judgment in the case of Helen G. Morgan Nelson against John Wyza. The plaintiff sued for $210 back rent and judgment was allowed by the alderman. She then sued the defendant in Ohio and had his wages attached.

Wyza moved to open the judgment but the court found insufficient grounds for opening it and refused the motion.

SENTENCES

Four sentences were handed down Friday by Judge W. Walter Braham.

Richard Evans, charged with conducting a lottery, was fined $100 and costs.

Nelson E. Drake and Carl Withers were each fined $100 and costs and 30 days in the county jail for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. They will be released in three days if the fine and costs are paid.

William Clement, operating a motor vehicle after suspension of license, was fined $100 and costs.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

On the morning of a Derby Day in Louisville, sports-writer Red Smith crept into the pressbox, showing every evidence of a strenuous session the evening previous. Grantland Rice whistled, and gasped, "Man, you should use your eyes." Red replied wearily, "If you think they look so bad from where you sit, you should see them from this side!"

Clarence Bleicher, president of the DeSoto division of Chrysler, confesses, "When we have a tough job at our plant, and our experts can't figure an easy way to do it, we put one of our laziest men on it. He'll find that easy way in 48 hours flat. Then we adopt the method."

"It's a disgrace to waste our time with a trivial squabble like this," thundered Magistrate McInnes from the bench. "Couldn't you two men have settled your differences out of court?" "Yes, sir," responded the defendant meekly, "that's what we were trying to do when this blank cop interfered."

Kentucky County Leads New Life

VAN CLEVE, Ky. — (INS) — "Bloody Breathitt" county in Kentucky no longer carries or deserves that title.

And responsible for polishing Breathitt county's name is the Kentucky Mountain Holiness association which was founded 25 years ago by Miss Lela McConnell.

The Holiness association is not a religious denomination. Its five schools, 17 churches and a radio station are open to many faiths.

"Miss Lela," as the folk of Breathitt county call her, founded Mt. Carmel high school in 1924 when public schools in Kentucky were a novelty. She had given up a lucrative teaching position in Atlantic City, N. J., to take religious training in Chicago.

Two years ago Asbury college, a Methodist theological school at Wilmore, Ky., Miss Lela's alma mater, conferred upon her the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. It was the first honorary degree ever granted a woman in recognition of her work.

The Kentucky Mountain Bible Institute boasts a number of fine buildings on its campus. The association also operates a large farm which grow much of the food used in the various branches of the organization.

The radio station, WMTC, broadcasts school entertainment and educational programs.

Crippled Navy Patrol Bomber Lands Safely

NORFOLK, Va., March 4.—(INS)—A crippled navy patrol bomber flew 400 miles over the Atlantic with one of its two engines out and landed safely at Norfolk Naval Air Base early today.

A navy spokesman at Air Control Headquarters said the big craft completed the flight at 12:17 a. m. (EST).

The engine failed as the bomber, with 13 persons aboard, was en route from Norfolk to participate in Operation Portrex, naval air-sea exercises in the Caribbean. The pilot reversed his course and headed back for the seaport.

Dynamite Cap Is Exploded At Game

HERSHEY, Pa., March 4.—(INS)—A hearing will be held today for 19-year-old Paul Hoover, of Stewartstown, arrested last night after two spectators at a basketball game were injured by a dynamite cap that exploded in a crowd of fans at Hershey Sports Arena.

Hershey Estates Police Chief John Williams charged the youth with malicious mischief with explosives.

Justice of the Peace John Zoll ordered him committed to Dauphin county jail at Harrisburg.

According to Williams, Hoover told him that he threw the dynamite cap into the group "on an impulse."

James Lutz and Ernest W. Drum, both of Lebanon, were burned in the legs by the explosion. They were attending the Central Pennsylvania PIAA basketball championship game, which York high school won from Lebanon.

In France they serve butter scented with flowers.

City's Appeal Is Dismissed

Court Orders Judgment For Margaret Orres

In an order and opinion handed down by Judge John G. Lamoree the verdict of $1000 for Margaret Orres against the city of New Castle is upheld.

Miss Orres was injured on October 5, 1947, when she fell on a sidewalk near West Washington and Greenwood avenue. She claimed the city was negligent in not keeping the sidewalk clean of small stones washed over it from previous rains.

The city asked for judgment N. O. V. (notwithstanding the verdict) and it was this motion that Judge Lamoree refused. Judgment is ordered entered.

MOTION REFUSED

Judge W. Walter Braham has handed down an order and opinion refusing a motion to open judgment in the case of Helen G. Morgan Nelson against John Wyza. The plaintiff sued for $210 back rent and judgment was allowed by the alderman. She then sued the defendant in Ohio and had his wages attached.

Wyza moved to open the judgment but the court found insufficient grounds for opening it and refused the motion.

SENTENCES

Four sentences were handed down Friday by Judge W. Walter Braham.

Richard Evans, charged with conducting a lottery, was fined $100 and costs.

Nelson E. Drake and Carl Withers were each fined $100 and costs and 30 days in the county jail for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. They will be released in three days if the fine and costs are paid.

William Clement, operating a motor vehicle after suspension of license, was fined $100 and costs.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

On the morning of a Derby Day in Louisville, sports-writer Red Smith crept into the pressbox, showing every evidence of a strenuous session the evening previous. Grantland Rice whistled, and gasped, "Man, you should use your eyes." Red replied wearily, "If you think they look so bad from where you sit, you should see them from this side!"

Clarence Bleicher, president of the DeSoto division of Chrysler, confesses, "When we have a tough job at our plant, and our experts can't figure an easy way to do it, we put one of our laziest men on it. He'll find that easy way in 48 hours flat. Then we adopt the method."

"It's a disgrace to waste our time with a trivial squabble like this," thundered Magistrate McInnes from the bench. "Couldn't you two men have settled your differences out of court?" "Yes, sir," responded the defendant meekly, "that's what we were trying to do when this blank cop interfered."

Kentucky County Leads New Life

VAN CLEVE, Ky. — (INS) — "Bloody Breathitt" county in Kentucky no longer carries or deserves that title.

And responsible for polishing Breathitt county's name is the Kentucky Mountain Holiness association which was founded 25 years ago by Miss Lela McConnell.

The Holiness association is not a religious denomination. Its five schools, 17 churches and a radio station are open to many faiths.

"Miss Lela," as the folk of Breathitt county call her, founded Mt. Carmel high school in 1924 when public schools in Kentucky were a novelty. She had given up a lucrative teaching position in Atlantic City, N. J., to take religious training in Chicago.

Two years ago Asbury college, a Methodist theological school at Wilmore, Ky., Miss Lela's alma mater, conferred upon her the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters. It was the first honorary degree ever granted a woman in recognition of her work.

The Kentucky Mountain Bible Institute boasts a number of fine buildings on its campus. The association also operates a large farm which grow much of the food used in the various branches of the organization.

The radio station, WMTC, broadcasts school entertainment and educational programs.

A special meeting has been planned for March 14, in the home of Mrs. George Biddle, Volant.

The birthdays of Mrs. C. E. Clark, Mrs. Rosenholm and Mrs. Alfred Hillard were recognized. St. Patrick's Day games were directed by Mrs. Paul Shaw, aided by Mrs. Carl Elder and Mrs. Rosenholm with a prize going to Mrs. Homer Moose.

While playing games, the members wore clothes from the grab-bags, brought to the meeting. Mrs. Melvin McConahy was awarded a prize for the funniest costume. Each one also wore something green. Each was given an Irish name to be used during the evening.

Using the St. Patrick's Day motif, lunch was served with attractive favors, made by the hostesses, marking the trays. Hobby night will be observed Friday, April 7, when Mrs. Alfred Hillard and Mrs. J. H. Stouffer will be co-hostesses.

Croton Choir Director Feted

Mrs. Charles Campbell, director of the choir of Croton Methodist church, was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening after choir rehearsal, when members of the choir assembled in the church dining room.

A large decorated birthday cake with lighted candles centered the table. The group joined in singing "Happy Birthday." Lunch was served by Alyce Bishop and Donna Sheehy, hostesses.

Ralph Heckathorn presided when future activities of the group were discussed. Several resolutions were adopted.

The choir is preparing to present the Easter cantata, "The Song of Triumph," Easter Sunday.

Kenneth Bishop and Albert Rowles will be hosts at the next meeting Thursday, April 6.

Gayette Club Party

An enjoyable evening was held by Gayette club members when they met in their clubrooms on Thursday evening. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Louis DeAngelo and Mrs. Albert Bucci.

Cards were the evening's entertainment, with prizes going to Mrs. Robert Mash and Mrs. Louis Lutton. A lovely gift was presented to Mrs. Sam Angelo.

Several accordion selections were presented by Miss Virginia Cerciel as a special feature of the evening. Dancing was later enjoyed by the group.

A second anniversary dinner and theater party will be held tonight, with hostesses being Mrs. Anthony Gentile and Mrs. Louis Lutton.

Lisbon School Fire Destroys Structure

LISBON, O., March 4.—A $200,000 fire in the 53-year-old McKinley school building here Friday completely destroyed the structure which housed 317 pupils. No school was in session at the time of the disastrous blaze which started in the early moning hours.

Firemen fought the blaze to no avail in near zero weather. School authorities say that only $90,000 insurance was carried on the school which will have to be replaced at a cost of $300,000. State and federal aid will be sought to replace the building.

In the meantime half day sessions will be called in the older Lincoln building which already houses 378 pupils. A bond issue of $405,000 has been authorized to replace the Lincoln building.

Past Halfway Mark In Paying G.I. Funds

WASHINGTON, March 4—(INS)—The government today checked off the halfway mark in the vast job of paying ex-GI's their World War II insurance dividends.

The treasury's checkwriting crews said that of Friday night, 7,571,561 checks covering a total of one billion, 351 million dollars had been dropped into the mail.

Nearly 15 million policy holders will share in the 2.8 billion dollar payoff. The treasury and veterans administration team report they are way ahead of the schedule calling for a June 30 deadline on the mass production chore.

Various groups are finding that the photographic and engraving department of The News is ar adventure in education. Many groups pick out a particular phase of newspaper work for a tour because of their obvious interests in that phase.

One such group to visit the paper recently was the Camera club and representatives of the annual staff from New Castle high school. The group, under the leadership of Clayton Hofmeister, a teacher at New Castle High, made a comprehensive study into the mysteries of changing a photographic print into a newspaper engraving.

Those making the tour were Bill Frey, James Gibson, Bruce Kerr, Ann McKenzie, Gwendolyn Abraham, John Bowman and Robert Florida.

Lumber Industry Shows Recovery

WASHINGTON, March 4—(INS)—The nation's lumber industry has experienced a "phenomenal" recovery in production and with continued high-levels of home-building the outlook is good.

The commerce department, in a report by its lunmber committee, says the industry started off 1949 in a sluggish fashion but the construction pickup served to spark record lumber output in the last three months of the year.

And commerce declares that demand for lumber is continuing as winter building progresses at an unusually high rate. Two factors, however, are slightly marring an otherwise bright lumber picture.

Bad weather in many parts of the country is helping slow production and adoption of the national 75-cent an hour minimum wage may put some small mills in the south, particularly, out of business.

With respect to the overall situation, the departmen says: "production of lumber in 1949 reflected the trend of housing and industrial activity. After a very low output in the first quarter, production increased steadily through the year.

"Total production in 1949 was estimated to be 31,987 million board feet, or 11 per cent less than in 1948. Of the 1949 output, 27 per cent was produced in the last quarter."

CALF VACCINATION AIDS IN BRUCELLOSIS CONTROL

Lawrence county farmers have succeeded in controlling Brucellosis (Bang's) disease so that most cattle herds are free of this disease. They also know that they must wage a continual battle to prevent any outbreak of the disease.

One useful method, now available to all cattle owners without charge, is calfhood vaccination. Calves may be vaccinated while they are six and seven months old, this vaccination helps these calves to acquire considerable resistance to the disease.

Under the program recently started by the Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Industry, indemnity will be paid for all vaccinated animals which remain positive to the blood-test, eighteen months after they were vaccinated. Heifers may be bred while still positive. Vaccinated animals do not spread the disease in the herd.

Herd owners who wish to start calf vaccination should see a veterinarian. For additional information on this program, stop at the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle, Pa.

CLINTON AND MOHAWK OATS STIFF STRAWED

Clinton and Mohawk oats, of the same parentage, are the stiffest strawed varieties, and where loding occurs they are recommended. Clinton 59 and Clinton 11, selections of the original Clinton, are more uniform in height and ripening, and are slightly higher yielding.

Advance, not so high yielding as Clinton and Mohawk, has more straw and height than any other variety. Ajax yielded 3 to 4 bushels per acre, on the average, during the last two years, but is not so stiff-strawed as Clinton and Mohawk, and does not weigh quite so much per measured bushel.

Zepher and Andrew, varieties recently introduced from the Midwest, are high yielding, but not so stiff-strawed as Clinton and Mohawk.

Old Mansion Is Destroyed By Fire

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—(INS)—An abandoned Pittsburgh landmark was destroyed by fire last night.

The blaze broke out in the last remaining section of the 125-year-old Schenley mansion in the Stanton Heights district.

During the past several years, large sections of the mansion had been dismantled and two rooms had been transferred intact to the Cathedral of Learning of the University of Pittsburgh.

Police said teen-agers had used the dwelling as an after-dark date place and might have started the fire.

Traffic Casualties In County In Month

Twelve accidents in which one person was killed and eight injured were investigated by State police stationed here, last month.

One year ago February no persons were killed but nine hurt.

The property damage last month was $5,038.

The police patrolled by auto 9,708 miles on 308 trips during the month.

Speeding was responsible for most accidents, and next, driving too fast for road conditions. Failure to drive on the right side of the highway and a careless pedestrian was the cause of other accidents, police reported.

Four accidents occured on Route 422, two on Route 88 and the others on other Lawrence county highways.

Washington High Has Snowball Hop

On a recent date the Y-Teen club of George Washington junior high school enjoyed a "snowball hop" at the Y. W. C. A.

Colorful decorations were used throughout the auditorium, and a clever play was presented, which was under the direction of Susan Shira. Donna Onasch assisted.

Those taking part were: Georgianne Perdue, Mary Lou Flamino, Sandy Raeburn, Janice Kivela, Carolyn Seifert and Kathleen Patterson.

Jerry Pander and Dick Bradford and Hugh Sturdy presented a few musical numbers.

Refreshments were served during intermission. Those aiding on various committees included: Nancy Campbell, Toni Dingledy, Connie Cowmeadow, Saralee Gerson, Sandy Raeburn, Lois Bratschie, Penny Thompson, Betty Jane McLure, Shirley Gibson, Tom Crawford, Jim Johnson, Arden Park, Ermajean Shellhammer, Roberta Kleeman, Nancy Ross, Gertrude Ullrich, Glenn Maxwell, Dick Bradford and Bob Black.

Lilian Armstrong won the poster contest prize. Mrs. Earl Smith, chairman of the Y-Teen committee of the board, Mrs. Clark McClelland, teen-age program director, Jeen Nunn, Carolyn Rocks and Jessica Jenkins and Carl Cotton attended the affair.

Visas Refused To 12 Seeking To Come To Peace Conference

WASHINGTON, March 4—(INS)—The state department announced it has refused visas to 12 members of the "World Congress of Partisans of Peace" who want to come to the U. S. to petiton Congress for cessation of the arms race.

Those denied permission to enter the country include the so-called "Red Dean" of Canterbury, Hewlett Johnson, and Pablo Picasso, famous Spanish modernist painter.

The visas were denied because, the department said, the 12 are "either known Communists or fellow travelers" subject to exclusion under immigration laws.

The department announced that prior to taking this action it had consulted with House and Senate leaders of both parties who were unanimous in disapproving the group's entry.

WHAT BREAKS UP HIGHWAYS WHERE TRUCKS ARE BARRED?
One of the most common charges of those opposed to motor truck transportation is "the trucks break up the highways".
Of course, this chromo has been refuted time and again, but folks can dream can't they?
Recently, in an eastern state, a section of restricted boulevard was closed because the concrete was breaking up. This boulevard was restricted to passenger cars only (in spite of the fact that truck taxes helped to build it).
Certainly trucks cannot be blamed for breaking this highway up, they never use it. But pictures of it make excellent propaganda against motor truck transportation.
Freezing weather and quick thaws, improper drainage, improper mix of the concrete, old age, these and a dozen other things are the reasons for concrete highways failing. But the motor truck is not one of the reasons.

Speeding was responsible for most accidents, and next, driving too fast for road conditions. Failure to drive on the right side of the highway and a careless pedestrian was the cause of other accidents, police reported.

Four accidents occured on Route 422, two on Route 88 and the others on other Lawrence county highways.

Visas Refused To 12 Seeking To Come To Peace Conference

WASHINGTON, March 4—(INS)—The state department announced it has refused visas to 12 members of the "World Congress of Partisans of Peace" who want to come to the U. S. to petiton Congress for cessation of the arms race.

Those denied permission to enter the country include the so-called "Red Dean" of Canterbury, Hewlett Johnson, and Pablo Picasso, famous Spanish modernist painter.

The visas were denied because, the department said, the 12 are "either known Communists or fellow travelers" subject to exclusion under immigration laws.

The department announced that prior to taking this action it had consulted with House and Senate leaders of both parties who were unanimous in disapproving the group's entry.

WHAT BREAKS UP HIGHWAYS WHERE TRUCKS ARE BARRED?
One of the most common charges of those opposed to motor truck transportation is "the trucks break up the highways".
Of course, this chromo has been refuted time and again, but folks can dream can't they?
Recently, in an eastern state, a section of restricted boulevard was closed because the concrete was breaking up. This boulevard was restricted to passenger cars only (in spite of the fact that truck taxes helped to build it).
Certainly trucks cannot be blamed for breaking this highway up, they never use it. But pictures of it make excellent propaganda against motor truck transportation.
Freezing weather and quick thaws, improper drainage, improper mix of the concrete, old age, these and a dozen other things are the reasons for concrete highways failing. But the motor truck is not one of the reasons.

East Brook, Morellas And Ecclesians Advance In Tourney

Press Box Mutterings

Regularly scheduled basketball games are past the wire in Lawrence county and tournament time is in full stride.

When this time of year rolls around county basketball fans can often see three or four of their favorite teams in action all in the same night without even moving from their seats.

Tonight in the Optimist club tournament at the George Washington junior high school floor the Wampum Merchants, Mt. Jackson Indies, Hank A.C., Morella's and Ecclesians can all be seen in action on the same floor.

All of these teams appear in second round games in the tournament.

Speaking of tournaments, this Wampum junior high team has done all right by itself in the Hubbard, O., junior tournament.

Rated no better than an also ran at the beginning of the competition, the Little Indians have swept past Leetonia, Mahoning, Niles, Washington and Salem.

Now they find themselves in the finals with Hayes, reputely one of the smoothest junior high teams in the district. One thing is certain, however, and that is that Hayes also will find itself matched with a pretty smooth outfit.

The most amazing thing about this Wampum junior high five is its size. Most the boys hover slightly over the five foot mark, with Don Hennon not even reaching that mark. A Youngstown radio broadcaster dubbed Don "Midget" in the game with Salem.

This has turned out to be quite a year for Wampum basketball. Both junior and senior teams have overcome some terrific handicaps to reach their heights.

It's hard to realize that this same Wampum high school team lost its first game of the season to Freedom by a 62-28 score. It also dropped its second and third game before winning one.

It improved little by little as the season progressed and by the time the Section 24 season began the Indians were ready to roll.

Coach Butler Hennon gives the credit to the boys. They worked hard to make a success out of what looked like what might be a bad season, says Butler.

In 1930 and 1931, when the late Babe was drawing contracts for $80,000, the tax bite was only $10,513.

Titans Accept Bid To NAIB Tourney; Play Tech Tonight

Can Set Mark For Victories

Kansas City Tourney Of 32 Teams Will Start March 13

Westminster College has accepted an invitation to participate in the National Association Intercollegiate Basketball tournament at Kansas City March 13-18, Athletic Director Grover C. Washabaugh has announced.

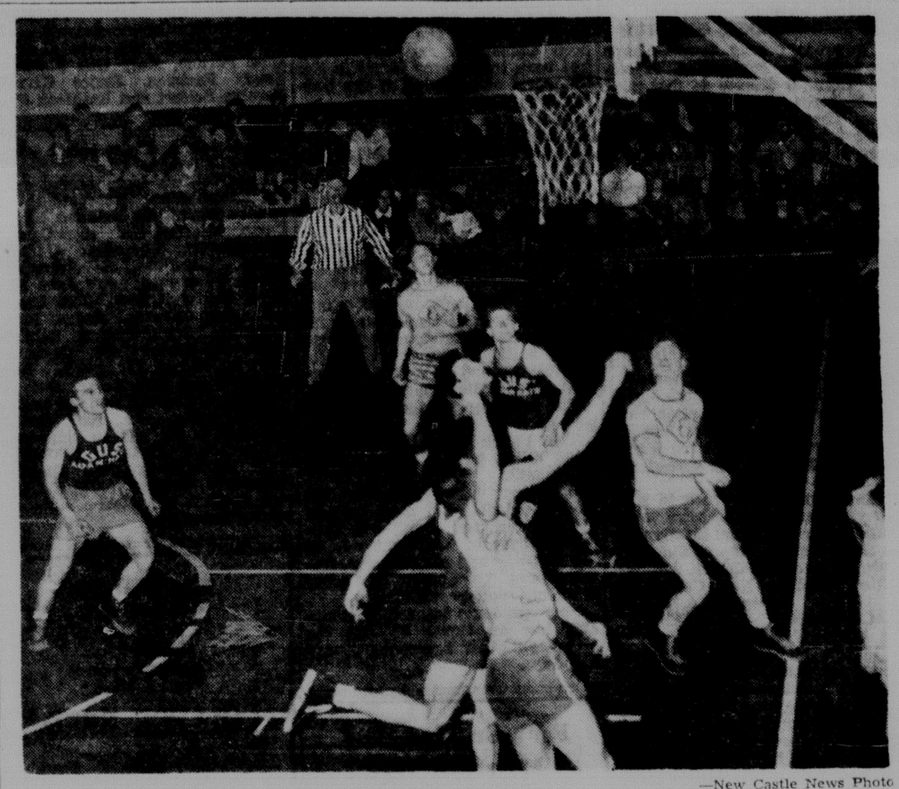

Acceptance of the bid came late yesterday afternoon following a meeting of Washabaugh with a college executive committee to consider details of the invitation extended by NAIB Tuesday.

Second Major Tourney

The Kansas City appearance will be the second major tournament the Towering Titans have appeared in within recent years. The 1941 team, which racked up a 20-1 record participated in the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden. This year's Titan aggregation has a 21-2 record with four more games to play in its regular schedule.

A win of two or more of the remaining games will give the team the highest number of wins in a single season since basketball was introduced as a sport at the college 52 years ago.

Thirty-two teams will appear in the NAIB tourney which will be run as a straight elimination event. Six teams in addition to Westminster have accepted bids to the tournament to date. They are Hamline University of St. Paul, Minn., the defending champions; Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Murray State College, Murray, Ky.; Arkansas Polytechnic College, Russellville, Ark.; Oklahoma East Central State, Ada, Okla., and Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Final Home Tilt For Six Seniors

McCullough, Wagner, Jones, Shaffer, Fuhrer And Spangler Leaving

Westminster's tournament-bound Titans can become the second team in Westminster college basketball history to win as many as 22 games in a single season, if they defeat the Plaid of Carnegie Tech here tonight. The Titans meet the Tech quintet at 8:15 p.m., in the final Westminster home game of the current season.

Coach Charles "Buzz" Ridl's Westminster Jayvees tangle with the Tech reserves in the 6:45 p.m., preliminary.

Can Set New Record

Tonight's Westminster team will take the floor with a sparkling record of 21 victories and two defeats. Aside from the fact that a Titan success would be the 68th consecutive home floor victory for a Titan court team, a triumph would tie the Titans, in games won, with the Westminster team of 1933-34, which won 22 while losing four times.

A Westminster team has never won more than 22 games in a single campaign in the college's basketball history.

Final Home Game

Aside from tying the games won record, the Titans have special reason for wanting to cop tonight's game. It will be the final home appearance for six seniors. Forwards Jackie Jones, Connellsville, and Bruce Wagner, Cochranton, centers Allen McCullough, Bradford, and Dick Fuhrer, and guard Clyde Shaffer, New Wilmington, close out their collegiate cage careers on the home floor in the varsity attraction.

Utility man Jim Spangler, senior forward from Somerset, is listed as a probable starter for the Titan Jayvees in the preliminary.

The Titans will wind up their season play Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, meeting Franklin and Marshall, Millersville State Teachers and Bucknell quintets on successive nights on the road.

Small Absolved Of All Blame In Death Of Roach

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS)—A New York county grand jury concurred with previous investigations today in failing to find criminal negligence in the Feb. 23 death of Laverne Roach, 24-year-old middleweight boxer.

Roach died following a knockout by Georgie Small of Brooklyn.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said evidence at the three-day grand jury inquiry blamed Roach's death on a ruptured blood vessel in his brain.

Second Round Games Tonight Will Keep Cage Fans On Edge

East Brook Boosters eliminated the K. Pulaskis from the Optimist tournament last night when they dropped the KP's 48-43 in a second round game.

In the last two first round games in the tournament the Morellas defeated the Polish Falcons 55-37 and the Ecclesian Club topped the Gus Big Five 51-44.

Boosters Advance

The win puts the Boosters into the semi-finals with the winner of the Wampum-Mt. Jackson game, which will be played tonight.

The K. P. defense was tight in last night's game but the Boosters started hitting from outside to take the decision.

Morellas and Falcons battled on even terms for one half, but Morellas pulled away in the second half to take the game by a good margin.

Ecclesian Club got off to an early lead to defeat the Gus Big Five 51-44. Galgayso was the big scoring gun for the winners with 25 points, the highest in the tournament to date.

Tonight's Games

The Wampum Merchants meet the Mt. Jackson Indies, Hank A. C. takes on Princeton, and Morella's play the Ecclesians in second round games tonight at George Washington Junior high school.

The winner of the Wampum-Mt. Jackson game will meet the East Brook Boosters Monday night in the semi-finals.

The winners of the Hank-Princeton and Morella-Ecclesian games will meet each other in the other semi-final game Monday night.

The Wampum-Mt. Jackson game is first on tonight's card at seven o'clock, followed by the Hank's-Princeton game at eight, and the Morella-Ecclesian game at nine.

Canisius college announces that it is dropping football because of financial difficulties. This leaves the University of Buffalo as the only football representative in the city.

Akron Surprises Duquesne, 51 To 49

AKRON, O., March 4.—(INS)—Akron University upset Duquesne's high and mighty Dukes, 51-49, last night in Akron before 3,500 excited fans.

Lou Arko sank 20 points to lead his mates in the stunning victory over the tourney-bound Dukes who couldn't get started until the last 10 minutes. It was Duquesne's second defeat in 24 tilts.

The Zippers close the season with 16 victories and nine losses.

Konstanty's record last semester was nine and five and he is credited with saving at least eight other games. Terms of the pact signed yesterday remained private.

Falcons Hope To Even Series

Polish Falcons Eager To Win Sunday At Home Over K. Pulaskis

The Falcon hall Sunday afternoon, will be the scene of the annual battle between the Polish Falcons and the K. Pulaski Big Five, in the second game of a three game series.

The Falcons will have to win this one, if the series is to call for a third contest. The K. Pulaskis on the other hand must win this encounter and thus prevent a third game, which would probably be played on a neutral floor.

No Changes

Coach "Cash" Koszela of the Falcons plans no change in his lineup, and will go with the same five men that started in last Sunday's encounter with the Big Five.

The preliminary is slated to start at 2 p.m. with the Polish Falcon Reserves and the K. Pulaski Cubs providing the thrills for the fans. The Reserves will fight an uphill battle and will try to avenge last Sunday's defeat by the Cubs.

Pozza Wins Over Johnny Clements In First Round

Moran Wins TKO Over Dave Pinto In Third Round

ELLWOOD CITY, March 4.—Billy Pozza, 183, of this city, scored a technical knockout over Johnny Clements, 191, of Dayton, in two minutes of the first round last night in the Lion's club show in the high school gymnasium.

Clements was knocked down three times for a count of eight. He was groggy on his feet when Referee Mike Hogan stopped the fight.

A stomach blow paved the way for Pozza's quick victory.

Frankie Moran, 145, of New Castle, scored a technical knockout over Dave Pinto, 148, of Columbus, in 2:05 minutes of the third round. Pinto was bleeding profusely from the nose when Referee Mickey Solomon halted the affray.

George (Buster) Smith, 166, of New Castle, and Duke Peaks, 163, of Youngstown, fought a five-round draw.

Best Fight of the Night

Wally Hally, 156, of Johnstown, knocked out Frank Ivan, 151, of Columbus, in 2:45 minutes of the third round of a bout listed for four chapters. It was the best fight last night.

Eddie Marsh, 125, of Johnstown, won a knockout in the first 10 seconds of the opening round over Little Chief, 128, of Columbus. A punch to the body treminated the battle.

The officials were: referees, Mike Hogan and Mickie Solomon, judges, Mike Fazzone, with the referees alternating; timekeeper, Frank Fazzone, and announcer, Bill Voight.

A fair-sized crowd witnessed the show.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

A READER, E. K. TINDALL, Willow Grove, of Here & There column, takes issue with a statement issued by the Pennsylvania Game Commission which is to the effect that "snakes do not milk cows." Mr. Tindall says they do.

In fact, he caught one performing the task, he says. Here is his story, issued after he read the game commission's report in this column.

He discovered that one teat of his cow's udder was dry, day after day.

Mr. Tindall studied the situation then determined to investigate.

He followed the bovine to the West Pittsburg swamp.

While the cow grazed, he noticed a blacksnake approach, then watched it ascend a rear leg of the cow.

The reptile coiled around the leg then protruded its head toward the udder, and, drew milk from the bovine.

Mr. Tindall reports he killed the snake.

HIGHLIGHTS on SPORTS by WINTER'S

The First Forward Pass

In 1913 Knute Rockne and Gus Dorais introduced a new and spectacular football stunt in the game between Notre Dame and Army. It was the forward pass and Dorais passed to Knute so often, that Notre Dame won a decisive victory over Army. It was enthusiastically written up in the sports headlines that day. Knute Rockne and Gus Dorais were credited with "inventing" the forward pass but actually Dr. Bradbury Robinson, playing at St. Louis University in 1906, originated the forward pass.

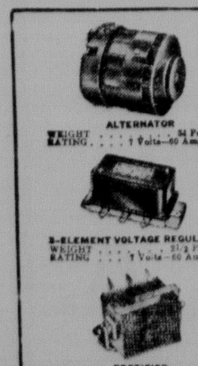

Before overhead play became legal in football in 1906, Doc Robinson realized the enormous advantage a player would have if he could perfect a long throw to his team mates. Doc and Clarence Kenny practiced until they perfected a form of throwing that worked. The opportunity to prove his theory came soon after, when Doc threw a perfect 87 yard pass in a game against the University of Kansas. His keen foresight gave football a new, faster and more exciting way of playing and today it is one of the most important forms of play depended upon to roll up winning scores.

Winter's Men's Store is now offering exceptional values in men's and boys' overcoats that have all of the "most important" requirements; protection from the wind, free moving comfort, style, fit, color, fabric, quality and value . . . come to Winter's today for the best.

East Brook, Morellas And Ecclesians Advance In Tourney

Press Box Mutterings

Regularly scheduled basketball games are past the wire in Lawrence county and tournament time is in full stride.

When this time of year rolls around county basketball fans can often see three or four of their favorite teams in action all in the same night without even moving from their seats.

Tonight in the Optimist club tournament at the George Washington junior high school floor the Wampum Merchants, Mt. Jackson Indies, Hank A.C., Morella's and Ecclesians can all be seen in action on the same floor.

All of these teams appear in second round games in the tournament.

Speaking of tournaments, this Wampum junior high team has done all right by itself in the Hubbard, O., junior tournament.

Rated no better than an also ran at the beginning of the competition, the Little Indians have swept past Leetonia, Mahoning, Niles, Washington and Salem.

Now they find themselves in the finals with Hayes, reputely one of the smoothest junior high teams in the district. One thing is certain, however, and that is that Hayes also will find itself matched with a pretty smooth outfit.

The most amazing thing about this Wampum junior high five is its size. Most the boys hover slightly over the five foot mark, with Don Hennon not even reaching that mark. A Youngstown radio broadcaster dubbed Don "Midget" in the game with Salem.

This has turned out to be quite a year for Wampum basketball. Both junior and senior teams have overcome some terrific handicaps to reach their heights.

It's hard to realize that this same Wampum high school team lost its first game of the season to Freedom by a 62-28 score. It also dropped its second and third game before winning one.

It improved little by little as the season progressed and by the time the Section 24 season began the Indians were ready to roll.

Coach Butler Hennon gives the credit to the boys. They worked hard to make a success out of what looked like what might be a bad season, says Butler.

In 1930 and 1931, when the late Babe was drawing contracts for $80,000, the tax bite was only $10,513.

Titans Accept Bid To NAIB Tourney; Play Tech Tonight

Can Set Mark For Victories

Kansas City Tourney Of 32 Teams Will Start March 13

Westminster College has accepted an invitation to participate in the National Association Intercollegiate Basketball tournament at Kansas City March 13-18, Athletic Director Grover C. Washabaugh has announced.

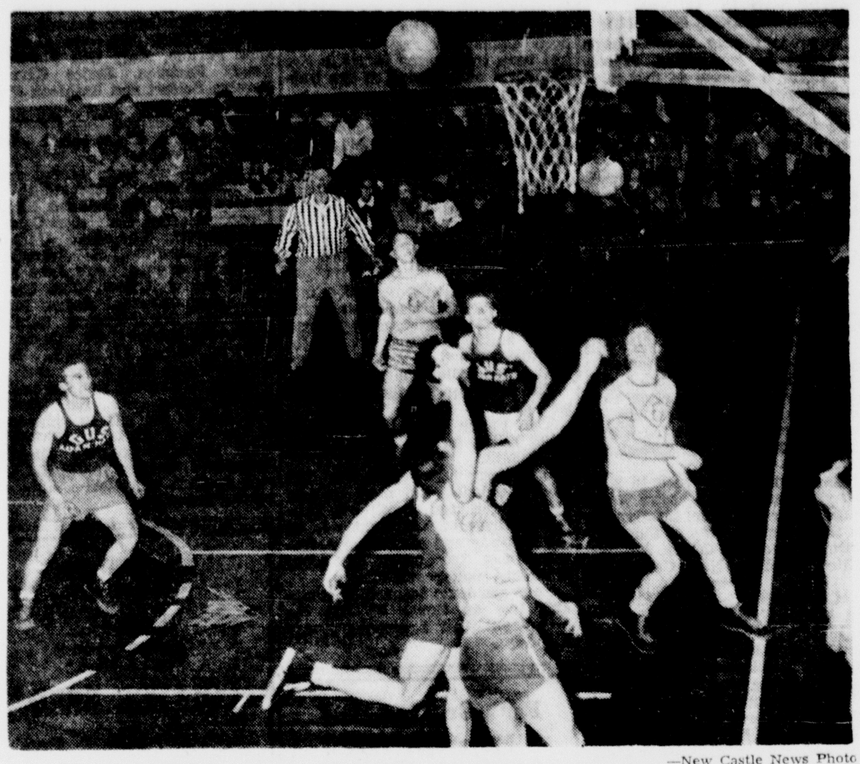

Acceptance of the bid came late yesterday afternoon following a meeting of Washabaugh with a college executive committee to consider details of the invitation extended by NAIB Tuesday.

Second Major Tourney

The Kansas City appearance will be the second major tournament the Towering Titans have appeared in within recent years. The 1941 team, which racked up a 20-1 record participated in the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden. This year's Titan aggregation has a 21-2 record with four more games to play in its regular schedule.

A win of two or more of the remaining games will give the team the highest number of wins in a single season since basketball was introduced as a sport at the college 52 years ago.

Thirty-two teams will appear in the NAIB tourney which will be run as a straight elimination event. Six teams in addition to Westminster have accepted bids to the tournament to date. They are Hamline University of St. Paul, Minn., the defending champions; Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Murray State College, Murray, Ky.; Arkansas Polytechnic College, Russellville, Ark.; Oklahoma East Central State, Ada, Okla., and Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Final Home Tilt For Six Seniors

McCullough, Wagner, Jones, Shaffer, Fuhrer And Spangler Leaving

Westminster's tournament-bound Titans can become the second team in Westminster college basketball history to win as many as 22 games in a single season, if they defeat the Plaid of Carnegie Tech here tonight. The Titans meet the Tech quintet at 8:15 p.m., in the final Westminster home game of the current season.

Coach Charles "Buzz" Ridl's Westminster Jayvees tangle with the Tech reserves in the 6:45 p.m., preliminary.

Can Set New Record

Tonight's Westminster team will take the floor with a sparkling record of 21 victories and two defeats. Aside from the fact that a Titan success would be the 68th consecutive home floor victory for a Titan court team, a triumph would tie the Titans, in games won, with the Westminster team of 1933-34, which won 22 while losing four times.

A Westminster team has never won more than 22 games in a single campaign in the college's basketball history.

Final Home Game

Aside from tying the games won record, the Titans have special reason for wanting to cop tonight's game. It will be the final home appearance for six seniors. Forwards Jackie Jones, Connellsville, and Bruce Wagner, Cochranton, centers Allen McCullough, Bradford, and Dick Fuhrer, and guard Clyde Shaffer, New Wilmington, close out their collegiate cage careers on the home floor in the varsity attraction.

Utility man Jim Spangler, senior forward from Somerset, is listed as a probable starter for the Titan Jayvees in the preliminary.

The Titans will wind up their season play Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, meeting Franklin and Marshall, Millersville State Teachers and Bucknell quintets on successive nights on the road.

Second Round Games Tonight Will Keep Cage Fans On Edge

East Brook Boosters eliminated the K. Pulaskis from the Optimist tournament last night when they dropped the KP's 48-43 in a second round game.

In the last two first round games in the tournament the Morellas defeated the Polish Falcons 55-37 and the Ecclesian Club topped the Gus Big Five 51-44.

Boosters Advance

The win puts the Boosters into the semi-finals with the winner of the Wampum-Mt. Jackson game, which will be played tonight.

The K. P. defense was tight in last night's game but the Boosters started hitting from outside to take the decision.

Morellas and Falcons battled on even terms for one half, but Morellas pulled away in the second half to take the game by a good margin.

Ecclesian Club got off to an early lead to defeat the Gus Big Five 51-44. Galgayso was the big scoring gun for the winners with 25 points, the highest in the tournament to date.

Tonight's Games

The Wampum Merchants meet the Mt. Jackson Indies, Hank A. C. takes on Princeton, and Morella's play the Ecclesians in second round games tonight at George Washington Junior high school.

The winner of the Wampum-Mt. Jackson game will meet the East Brook Boosters Monday night in the semi-finals.

The winners of the Hank-Princeton and Morella-Ecclesian games will meet each other in the other semi-final game Monday night.

The Wampum-Mt. Jackson game is first on tonight's card at seven o'clock, followed by the Hank's-Princeton game at eight, and the Morella-Ecclesian game at nine.

Polish Falcons Eager To Win Sunday At Home Over K. Pulaskis

The Falcon hall Sunday afternoon, will be the scene of the annual battle between the Polish Falcons and the K. Pulaski Big Five, in the second game of a three game series.

The Falcons will have to win this one, if the series is to call for a third contest. The K. Pulaskis on the other hand must win this encounter and thus prevent a third game, which would probably be played on a neutral floor.

No Changes

Coach "Cash" Koszela of the Falcons plans no change in his lineup, and will go with the same five men that started in last Sunday's encounter with the Big Five.

The preliminary is slated to start at 2 p.m. with the Polish Falcon Reserves and the K. Pulaski Cubs providing the thrills for the fans. The Reserves will fight an uphill battle and will try to avenge last Sunday's defeat by the Cubs.

Small Absolved Of All Blame In Death Of Roach

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS)—A New York county grand jury concurred with previous investigations today in failing to find criminal negligence in the Feb. 23 death of Laverne Roach, 24-year-old middleweight boxer.

Roach died following a knockout by Georgie Small of Brooklyn.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said evidence at the three-day grand jury inquiry blamed Roach's death on a ruptured blood vessel in his brain.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

A READER, E. K. TINDALL, Willow Grove, of Here & There column, takes issue with a statement issued by the Pennsylvania Game Commission which is to the effect that "snakes do not milk cows." Mr. Tindall says they do.

In fact, he caught one performing the task, he says. Here is his story, issued after he read the game commission's report in this column.

He discovered that one teat of his cow's udder was dry, day after day.

Mr. Tindall studied the situation then determined to investigate. He followed the bovine to the West Pittsburg swamp.

While the cow grazed, he noticed a blacksnake approach, then watched it ascend a rear leg of the cow.

The reptile coiled around the leg then protruded its head toward the udder, and, drew milk from the bovine.

Mr. Tindall reports he killed the snake.

HIGHLIGHTS on SPORTS by WINTER'S

The First Forward Pass

In 1913 Knute Rockne and Gus Dorais introduced a new and spectacular football stunt in the game between Notre Dame and Army. It was the forward pass and Dorais passed to Knute so often, that Notre Dame won a decisive victory over Army. It was enthusiastically written up in the sports headlines that day. Knute Rockne and Gus Dorais were credited with "inventing" the forward pass but actually Dr. Bradbury Robinson, playing at St. Louis University in 1906, originated the forward pass.

Before overhead play became legal in football in 1906, Doc Robinson realized the enormous advantage a player would have if he could perfect a long throw to his team mates. Doc and Clarence Kenny practiced until they perfected a form of throwing that worked. The opportunity to prove his theory came soon after, when Doc threw a perfect 87 yard pass in a game against the University of Kansas. His keen foresight gave football a new, faster and more exciting way of playing and today it is one of the most important forms of play depended upon to roll up winning scores.

Winter's Men's Store is now offering exceptional values in men's and boys' overcoats that have all of the "most important" requirements; protection from the wind, free moving comfort, style, fit, color, fabric, quality and value . . . come to Winter's today for the best.

Walcott Scores TKO In Seventh

Referee Stops Garden Bout To Save Omelio Agramonte

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS)—Jersey Joe Walcott, the fellow they called an old man two years ago when he nearly beat Joe Louis, still can handle himself in the prize ring.

Jersey Joe came back last night to Madison Square Garden and obliged a crowd of 8,000 by scoring a seventh-round technical knockout over Omelio Agramonte, the Cuban heavyweight champion.

Referee Stops Bout

Referee Jack Watson stopped the bout at 2:11 of the seventh after Walcott's left hooks sent Agramonte down twice for nine counts. The fight was scheduled for ten rounds.

Walcott, who admits to 36 years, weighed 198 to 183¼ for the Cuban, who is 11 years younger.

It wasn't much of a fight except in the first and last rounds. Jersey Joe floored Agramonte twice in the first round, then gave Omelio a boxing lesson until the seventh.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(INS)—Jack Burke, Jr., 27-year-old White Plains, N. Y., golfer, held a two-stroke lead today halfway through the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open.

Burke carded a four-under-par 67 yesterday for the second consecutive day to wind up with a 134.

Toby Lyons, of Warren, Pa., was close on his heels with a 136, while most of the pre-tourney favorites were well off the pace.

Dick Wakefield Signs Contract

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(INS)—Dick Wakefield, "problem child" outfielder acquired from the Detroit Tigers, was in the New York Yankee fold today but the world champions still had four major holdouts on their hands.

Wakefield announced by telephone that he had decided to accept the club's terms, which call for a maximum 25 per cent cut to a reported $17,500.

Four Unsigned

Pitchers Vic Raschi and Tommy Byrne, Catcher Yogi Berra and Third Sacker Bobby Brown have yet to sign.

A Yankee problem of another sort is Joe DiMaggio. The Clipper feels so good this spring his bosses are afraid he will overdo his training regimen.

Shenango Y Plays Grace Team Tonight

Shenango Y. will play the Grace Memorial five of Pittsburgh tonight at the Central Y. M. C. A. at 8:30.

Grace Memorial is paced by two outstanding players in Earl Hord, six-foot six center, and Bill Terrell. In their last outing these two had 22 and 29 points, respectively.

Freshman Mike Boyda of the New York Bulldogs was officially pronounced today the National Football League's most potent punter in 1949.

Walcott Scores TKO In Seventh

Referee Stops Garden Bout To Save Omelio Agramonte

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS)—Jersey Joe Walcott, the fellow they called an old man two years ago when he nearly beat Joe Louis, still can handle himself in the prize ring.

Jersey Joe came back last night to Madison Square Garden and obliged a crowd of 8,000 by scoring a seventh-round technical knockout over Omelio Agramonte, the Cuban heavyweight champion.

Referee Stops Bout

Referee Jack Watson stopped the bout at 2:11 of the seventh after Walcott's left hooks sent Agramonte down twice for nine counts. The fight was scheduled for ten rounds.

Walcott, who admits to 36 years, weighed 198 to 183¼ for the Cuban, who is 11 years younger.

It wasn't much of a fight except in the first and last rounds. Jersey Joe floored Agramonte twice in the first round, then gave Omelio a boxing lesson until the seventh.

Jack Burke Leads At St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(INS)—Jack Burke, Jr., 27-year-old White Plains, N. Y., golfer, held a two-stroke lead today halfway through the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open.

Burke carded a four-under-par 67 yesterday for the second consecutive day to wind up with a 134.

Toby Lyons, of Warren, Pa., was close on his heels with a 136, while most of the pre-tourney favorites were well off the pace.

Dick Wakefield Signs Contract

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(INS)—Dick Wakefield, "problem child" outfielder acquired from the Detroit Tigers, was in the New York Yankee fold today but the world champions still had four major holdouts on their hands.

Wakefield announced by telephone that he had decided to accept the club's terms, which call for a maximum 25 per cent cut to a reported $17,500.

Four Unsigned

Pitchers Vic Raschi and Tommy Byrne, Catcher Yogi Berra and Third Sacker Bobby Brown have yet to sign.

A Yankee problem of another sort is Joe DiMaggio. The Clipper feels so good this spring his bosses are afraid he will overdo his training regimen.

Shenango Y Plays Grace Team Tonight

Shenango Y. will play the Grace Memorial five of Pittsburgh tonight at the Central Y. M. C. A. at 8:30.

Grace Memorial is paced by two outstanding players in Earl Hord, six-foot six center, and Bill Terrell. In their last outing these two had 22 and 29 points, respectively.

Freshman Mike Boyda of the New York Bulldogs was officially pronounced today the National Football League's most potent punter in 1949.

EXPECT MINERS WILL RETURN TO JOBS MONDAY

the mines, Lewis and the mine owners came to terms on a two-year agreement for a $1.30 a day increase for the 370,000 strikers.

Lawyers for the union and operators producing about 350 million tons of soft coal annually met today to draft the formal pact which will end the four-week coal strike and a mine controversy which has lasted for ten months.

The "settlement" came after the United Mine Workers Union was acquitted of charges of violating a federal district court order to end the crippling walkout. One leading operator said Lewis "proved the Taft-Hartley law doesn't work".

Mr. Truman's message to congress which recommended federal seizure of the pits under terms which the operators described as "unpleasant" also provided the final impetus for the break in the long negotiating deadlock.

Only Group Not Joining

The Southern Coal Producers Association was the only major group of operators not joining in the tentative agreement but the "south" is expected to accept the settlement shortly in order to restore its mines to normal production.

The contract "break" was negotiated by George H. Love of Pittsburgh, chief spokesman for northern and western commercial operators, and Harry M. Moses, president of U. S. Steel's coal-mining subsidiaries.

It represented a substantial compromise for both sides. Lewis had been seeking a $1.85 a day package increase while the operators contended for ten months that the coal industry could not afford any boost in production costs.

The $1.30 a day settlement is said to include a 70 cents a day pay raise for the mine workers plus a ten cents a ton increase in the industry's payments to the union welfare fund. The average production per miner is six tons a day.

Other Reported Terms

Other terms reportedly agreed on are:

Elimination of the clause which required the miners to work only when "able and willing"; a limitation on "memorial" period shutdowns to five days a year; retention of the present eight-hour day, and a return to work on a five-day a week basis.

The union first sought a 7½-hour work day and later tried to get a 15-minute reduction in the schedule but finally gave in on this point. It also surrendered on demands for a seniority clause, paid holidays and an increase in night shift differentials.

Operators principally were elated over elimination of the "able and willing" clause. They have charged that Lewis has abused this provision to order the three-day work week and call strikes at will.

It is understood that this provision will be supplanted with a clause protecting the union only against damage suits under the Taft-Hartley law for wildcat shutdowns.

Two points remain unsettled to be worked out today.

Moses reportedly was chosen as the operators' representative on the welfare fund board of trustees but then declined the assignment. This post remains to be filled.

Another unsettled issue is the union shop which requires all miner to join the UMW within 30 days after their employment. Attorneys for both sides will solve this problem, trying to make the contract language conform to the Taft-Hartley law.

Welsh Folks Have Banquet

St. David's Day Is Celebrated

There were over 200 Welsh folks and friends present on Friday evening, at the St. David's banquet, given in honor of the patron saint of Wales, in the dining room of the First United Presbyterian church. It was a splendid chicken dinner and all the trimmings. Rev. T. J. Jones gave the invocation.

The banquet tables were nicely decorated with lighted tapers, and daffodils, the American Welsh flower. A "leek," a Welsh emblem, was at each place, for wearing by the guests.

D. O. Davies, former councilman, presided over the occasion. Dave Lewis led the assembly in the singing of two verses of "America." Mrs. J. M. Evans was accompanist of the evening.

The chairman brought greetings to all present, and asked those to stand, who expected to make the pilgrimage to Salt Lake City, Utah, in September, to attend the Annual Gymanfa Ganu (Welsh Hymn Singing Assembly), in the Mormon Temple there.

The banquet was sponsored by the Star of Wales and Martha lodges of the True Ivorites of America.

Dave Lewis led in a period of singing of spirited Welsh hymns, and later with some pep singing of English familiar songs. David W. Rees directed the singing of several old Welsh songs.

Davies Chairman

Chairman Davies called on Ivor V. Davis to be toastmaster of the evening, which he carried out in an efficient manner. He advised the audience that owing to a very pressing engagement, Judge Elwen T. Phillips, Superior Court Judge of Youngstown, Ohio, was unable to be present, to make the speech of the evening.

The toastmaster brought greeting to all, and said what the Welsh lacked in quantity, they more than made up in quality, and were a force for good in the world; many millionaires, presidents, senators had passed on, but the names of St. David still lives on.

He called for very short address from a number of folks present. Griff Thomas made a few remarks, and stated he expected to make a visit to Wales this year. Mrs. Margaret Moncrief, president of Martha Lodge was introduced, also William D. Williams, president of Star of Wales lodge.

Welsh Song

Dave Lewis responded with a Welsh song "Dear Old Swansea Valley, Far Away." Joe Williams brought greetings, was thrilled to hear old congregational singing. Emrys Lewis, secretary of Star of Wales spoke. Rev. James N. Rainey, Central Christian church was glad to be present. Joe Leyde gave greetings. Mrs. William Bluedorn sang a solo. Rev. T. J. Jones stated this was the 35th St. David's occasion he had attended in this country.

Dave Davies of Sharon, banker, enjoyed coming. Councilman Richard Davis, County Commissioners Harvey Bush, Joe Gilmore and their wives, and Andy Dodds, Firechief and assistant Herman Steinbrink and William Bowen were introduced. Dave Lewis of Butler gave a reading. David W. Rees, sang two Welsh songs.

Harry Jones and T. C. Post made short talks, and Miss Florrie Davies sang two songs.

D. O. Davies took over the meeting and called on Dave Lewis who led all in the singing of "Hen Wlad Fy Nhadau" and "God Bless America."

Committee of arrangements was, Thomas Thomas, W. B. Francis, David Harris, David Lewis, Emrys Lewis, William Wiliams, Mrs. Margaret Moncrief, Mrs. Jane Lewis, Mrs. Alice Newell, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, Mrs. Doris Fabian, Miss Isabel Price, Mrs. Margaret Treharne. There were guests from Sharon, Wampum, Aliquippa, and Butler.

DR. SANDER MAY GIVE TESTIMONY NEXT MONDAY

ready had concluded that Mrs. Borroto was dead.

"A doubt, however, did cross his mind in the condition he was in," said defense attorney Ralph Langdell.

Will He Clarify

Will Dr. Sander explain that "doubt" to the satisfaction of the jury?

Will he clarify the "condition he was in?"

These are key questions, actually the crux of the case.

Enough has been testified already by character witness for the defense to show that Dr. Sander was a kind and sympathetic doctor who took the plight of his patients to heart. Some of his patients already have testified they would not be alive today if it were not for Dr. Sander.

Mrs. Borroto's pretty, 19-year old daughter, Elsie, told how keenly Dr. Sander felt over the suffering of her mother. How he used to do considerate things for her mother, such as bringing her grapes and presenting her with a singing canary, and how the doctor sympathized with her father, Reginald Borroto, who was greatly concerned, worried and nervous over his dying wife's condition.

"The thought of killing Mrs. Borroto" was not in Dr. Sander's mind, according to defense counsel, when he applied the needle. He already had felt her pulse—and found none—and his further examination of the patient found no evidence of heart beat.

ing the Hungarian consulate in New York and Cleveland.

"As to the first, the sentencing of Mr. Vogeler to prison on false charges merely confirms this government's conviction that it is unsafe for American citizens to visit Hungary under present conditions.

"As to the second, the closing of the Hungarian consulate in the United States was based and continues to be based on the Hungarian government's refusal to permit U. S. Consul officers in Budapest to perform their normal protective consular functions."

Charges Are Rejected

The note added that the U. S. knows of no rule of international law or practice under which the Hungarian government would be entitled to limit the number of diplomats in its capital.

It also rejected charges of spying against the Hungarian employes. The Hungarian government it said, has by its recent actions detrimental to the rights and safety of American citizens and its treatment of American interests in Hungary, has created a situation itself "prejudicial to the conduct of normal diplomatic, consular and commercial relations."

"The United States government will continue to adjust the composition of its legation staff in accordance with its own judgment of its requirements and, in doing so, it will of course take into account the arbitrary attitude of the Hungarian government," the note concluded.

New York Stocks

Market Shows Rising Trend

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS)—Agreement in the coal strike today lifted heavy industry and railroad share prices on the N. Y. stock exchange.

Although advances were limited to less than a dollar a share in most cases, large blocks of securities were traded.

A single transaction for 6,000 shares of U. S. Steel was made at 37½ cents a share above last night's closing.

Two thousand Bethlehem Steel were sold for a gain of 25 cents a share.

Smaller deals at advancing prices were recorded in Radio Corp. of America, Erie R. R., Southern Ry., Anaconda, and American Telephone. Chrysler Corp. jumped 50 cents a share despite the fact its plants are still strikebound.

the mines, Lewis and the mine owners came to terms on a two-year agreement for a $1.30 a day increase for the 370,000 strikers.

Lawyers for the union and operators producing about 350 million tons of soft coal annually met today to draft the formal pact which will end the four-week coal strike and a mine controversy which has lasted for ten months.

The "settlement" came after the United Mine Workers Union was acquitted of charges of violating a federal district court order to end the crippling walkout. One leading operator said Lewis "proved the Taft-Hartley law doesn't work".

Mr. Truman's message to congress which recommended federal seizure of the pits under terms which the operators described as "unpleasant" also provided the final impetus for the break in the long negotiating deadlock.

Only Group Not Joining

The Southern Coal Producers Association was the only major group of operators not joining in the tentative agreement but the "south" is expected to accept the settlement shortly in order to restore its mines to normal production.

The contract "break" was negotiated by George H. Love of Pittsburgh, chief spokesman for northern and western commercial operators, and Harry M. Moses, president of U. S. Steel's coal-mining subsidiaries.

It represented a substantial compromise for both sides. Lewis had been seeking a $1.85 a day package increase while the operators contended for ten months that the coal industry could not afford any boost in production costs.

The $1.30 a day settlement is said to include a 70 cents a day pay raise for the mine workers plus a ten cents a ton increase in the industry's payments to the union welfare fund. The average production per miner is six tons a day.

Other Reported Terms

Other terms reportedly agreed on are:

Elimination of the clause which required the miners to work only when "able and willing"; a limitation on "memorial" period shutdowns to five days a year; retention of the present eight-hour day, and a return to work on a five-day a week basis.

The union first sought a 7½-hour work day and later tried to get a 15-minute reduction in the schedule but finally gave in on this point. It also surrendered on demands for a seniority clause, paid holidays and an increase in night shift differentials.

Operators principally were elated over elimination of the "able and willing" clause. They have charged that Lewis has abused this provision to order the three-day work week and call strikes at will.

It is understood that this provision will be supplanted with a clause protecting the union only against damage suits under the Taft-Hartley law for wildcat shutdowns.

Two points remain unsettled to be worked out today.

Moses reportedly was chosen as the operators' representative on the welfare fund board of trustees but then declined the assignment. This post remains to be filled.

Another unsettled issue is the union shop which requires all miner to join the UMW within 30 days after their employment. Attorneys for both sides will solve this problem, trying to make the contract language conform to the Taft-Hartley law.

Welsh Folks Have Banquet

St. David's Day Is Celebrated

There were over 200 Welsh folks and friends present on Friday evening, at the St. David's banquet, given in honor of the patron saint of Wales, in the dining room of the First United Presbyterian church. It was a splendid chicken dinner and all the trimmings. Rev. T. J. Jones gave the invocation.

The banquet tables were nicely decorated with lighted tapers, and daffodils, the American Welsh flower. A "leek," a Welsh emblem, was at each place, for wearing by the guests.

D. O. Davies, former councilman, presided over the occasion. Dave Lewis led the assembly in the singing of two verses of "America." Mrs. J. M. Evans was accompanist of the evening.

The chairman brought greetings to all present, and asked those to stand, who expected to make the pilgrimage to Salt Lake City, Utah, in September, to attend the Annual Gymanfa Ganu (Welsh Hymn Singing Assembly), in the Mormon Temple there.

The banquet was sponsored by the Star of Wales and Martha lodges of the True Ivorites of America.

Dave Lewis led in a period of singing of spirited Welsh hymns, and later with some pep singing of English familiar songs. David W. Rees directed the singing of several old Welsh songs.

Davies Chairman

Chairman Davies called on Ivor V. Davis to be toastmaster of the evening, which he carried out in an efficient manner. He advised the audience that owing to a very pressing engagement, Judge Elwen T. Phillips, Superior Court Judge of Youngstown, Ohio, was unable to be present, to make the speech of the evening.

The toastmaster brought greeting to all, and said what the Welsh lacked in quantity, they more than made up in quality, and were a force for good in the world; many millionaires, presidents, senators had passed on, but the names of St. David still lives on.

He called for very short address from a number of folks present. Griff Thomas made a few remarks, and stated he expected to make a visit to Wales this year. Mrs. Margaret Moncrief, president of Martha Lodge was introduced, also William D. Williams, president of Star of Wales lodge.

Welsh Song

Dave Lewis responded with a Welsh song "Dear Old Swansea Valley, Far Away." Joe Williams brought greetings, was thrilled to hear old congregational singing. Emrys Lewis, secretary of Star of Wales spoke. Rev. James N. Rainey, Central Christian church was glad to be present. Joe Leyde gave greetings. Mrs. William Bluedorn sang a solo. Rev. T. J. Jones stated this was the 35th St. David's occasion he had attended in this country.

Dave Davies of Sharon, banker, enjoyed coming. Councilman Richard Davis, County Commissioners Harvey Bush, Joe Gilmore and their wives, and Andy Dodds, Fire-chief and assistant Herman Steinbrink and William Bowen were introduced. Dave Lewis of Butler gave a reading. David W. Rees, sang two Welsh songs.

Harry Jones and T. C. Post made short talks, and Miss Florrie Davies sang two songs.

D. O. Davies took over the meeting and called on Dave Lewis who led all in the singing of "Hen Wlad Fy Nhadau" and "God Bless America."

Committee of arrangements was, Thomas Thomas, W. B. Francis, David Harris, David Lewis, Emrys Lewis, William Wiliams, Mrs. Margaret Moncrief, Mrs. Jane Lewis, Mrs. Alice Newell, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, Mrs. Doris Fabian, Miss Isabel Price, Mrs. Margaret Treharne. There were guests from Sharon, Wampum, Aliquippa, and Butler.

ready had concluded that Mrs. Borroto was dead.

"A doubt, however, did cross his mind in the condition he was in," said defense attorney Ralph Langdell.

Will He Clarify

Will Dr. Sander explain that "doubt" to the satisfaction of the jury?

Will he clarify the "condition he was in?"

These are key questions, actually the crux of the case.

Enough has been testified already by character witness for the defense to show that Dr. Sander was a kind and sympathetic doctor who took the plight of his patients to heart. Some of his patients already have testified they would not be alive today if it were not for Dr. Sander.

Mrs. Borroto's pretty, 19-year old daughter, Elsie, told how keenly Dr. Sander felt over the suffering of her mother. How he used to do considerate things for her mother, such as bringing her grapes and presenting her with a singing canary, and how the doctor sympathized with her father, Reginald Borroto, who was greatly concerned, worried and nervous over his dying wife's condition.

"The thought of killing Mrs. Borroto" was not in Dr. Sander's mind, according to defense counsel, when he applied the needle. He already had felt her pulse—and found none—and his further examination of the patient found no evidence of heart beat.

U.S. FORCEFULLY REJECTS HUNGARIAN 'SUGGESTION'

ing the Hungarian consulate in New York and Cleveland.

"As to the first, the sentencing of Mr. Vogeler to prison on false charges merely confirms this government's conviction that it is unsafe for American citizens to visit Hungary under present conditions.

"As to the second, the closing of the Hungarian consulate in the United States was based and continues to be based on the Hungarian government's refusal to permit U. S. Consul officers in Budapest to perform their normal protective consular functions."

Charges Are Rejected

The note added that the U. S. knows of no rule of international law or practice under which the Hungarian government would be entitled to limit the number of diplomats in its capital.

It also rejected charges of spying against the Hungarian employes. The Hungarian government it said, has by its recent actions detrimental to the rights and safety of American citizens and its treatment of American interests in Hungary, has created a situation itself "prejudicial to the conduct of normal diplomatic, consular and commercial relations."

"The United States government will continue to adjust the composition of its legation staff in accordance with its own judgment of its requirements and, in doing so, it will of course take into account the arbitrary attitude of the Hungarian government," the note concluded.
